CHRISTIANSON PRESENTS BIENNIAL BUDGET

PROVES VERITABLE THIRTY-NINE MILLION DOLLAR BOMB

EXPECTED TO BE IGNITED BY FIRE OF THE OPPOSI-TION

LATTER ARE ALL OPPONENTS OF THE SO-CALLED BIG THREE

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Governor Theodore Christianson today laid the biennial budget on the floor of the Minnesota legislature—a veritable $39,632,097.90 bomb—which is expected to be ignited by the fire of opposition from opponents of the "Big Three."

The budget shows the scars of slashes made by the $8,655,487.17 cuts from the "Big Three" pruning knife and is $1,102,225.31 less than the appropriations made by the 1925 legislature.

Governor Christianson accompanied the budget figures with a brief message, complimenting A. J. Peterson, Henry Rines and H. W. Austin of the department of administration of finance, on their efforts to hold down recommendations without seriously crippling any state department or activity.

In his inaugural message the governor fixed the maximum appropriation figure for the next two years at $49,644,353.21, and has since repeatedly threatened to exercise his veto power to keep within the total allowed in 1925. Therefore, the total sum as recommended by Commissioner Peterson, submitted by the Governor today allows the legislature leeway of about $1,000,000 before reaching the danger line.

State aid to schools, teachers' colleges and the state university were the hardest hit by the cuts showing a total reduction of $4,538,367 from the amounts requested.

Major budget slashes follow:
State aid to schools, $2,641,600; teachers' colleges, $1,005,323; state university, $891,446; penal and charitable institutions, $665,800; university special activities, principally for county agricultural agents, agricultural extension and research bureaus, $454,400; state agricultural society (new swine barn and other improvements), $340,000; state game and fish department, $245,534; livestock sanitary board, $203,977; secretary of state (principally motor vehicle bureau), $200,220; state board of health, $174,628, and state soldiers' home, $105,488.

Reductions made from the amounts requested for teachers' colleges and the institutions under the state board of control are accounted for almost entirely by elimination of items for new buildings or other permanent improvements, while the big cut in the amount asked for state aid to schools was in harmony with the known attitude of Gov. Christianson, who vetoed the so-called supplemental school aid bill passed by the 1925 legislature.

Reductions were made in each of the 12 items in the budget request of the state board of health, the major cuts being: for maternity and infancy protection, $57,000; sanitary engineering laboratory, $18,840; stream pollution, $20,000; preventable diseases, $13,465, and venereal diseases, $14,578.

The amount requested for the soldiers' home was reduced almost entirely in the maintenance item which was cut from the request of $423,888 to $322,000.

State penal and charitable institutions had, among others, the following items either eliminated or reduced in the amounts given:
Willmar asylum, two cottages asked at $166,000, one allowed at $100,000; Pergus Falls hospital, fire escapes, cottages for men, $8,800; St. Peter hospital, fire-proofing and fire escapes, $23,000, and cottages for men, $88,000; school for feeble minded, fire protection equipment, $4,000 and granary, $3,600; colony for epileptics, asked three cottages at $235,000, allowed one at $106,500; Owatonna state public school, cottage $35,000, tunnels and piping, $30,000; Red Wing training school, garage, $3,000; Sauk Center home school for girls, gymnasium, $10,000.

LIBERAL ARMY SEEKS TO ATTACK NICARAGUA TOWN

MATAGALPA, ABOUT 100 MILES FROM MANAGUA, IS TARGET

LIBERAL REVOLUTION HINGES ON OUTCOME OF THE BATTLE

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 14.—A liberal army today was marching to the attack on Matagalpa, a town of about 100 miles from this capital in which there are American and other foreign residents. An American resident has requested the protection of United States marines.

Upon the outcome of the impending engagement probably depended the result of the liberal revolution which has caused death and destruction throughout the country. Matagalpa is one of the important towns in the possession of the conservative troops of President Adolfo Diaz.

The rebels advanced on Matagalpa from Muy Muy, dragging field pieces and 30 machine guns.

Government troops were concentrating southeast of Matagalpa to meet the rebels in the open. Diaz has ordered the government garrison there to withdraw to save the city, which houses 120 Americans and other foreign nationals, from destruction during the fighting.

The city would be surrendered without a struggle and a battle was expected to occur after its occupation by rebel troops. Matagalpa is 25 miles from Muy Muy.

The serious turn of military affairs caused President Diaz to inform United States Minister Charles B. Eberhardt of developments last night. Eberhardt told the United Press that he planned to send a representative of the legation to Matagalpa immediately. He regarded the situation as serious.

Charge D'Affaires Dennis, it was believed, would request rebel generals to refrain from firing on the city or repeating the destruction which occurred several days ago at Chinandega. A strong effort would be made to have the city treated as a neutral area.

J. A. Wiley, prominent member of the Matagalpa foreign colony, has requested that the United States marines be sent from Managua to protect foreigners.

The rebel march upon Matagalpa began yesterday after heavy fighting with 500 government troops.

TEST VOTE ON McNARY-HAUGEN BILL IN HOUSE

FARM RELIEF BILL QUICKLY PASSED IN THE SENATE
LAST WEEK

TEST VOTE IN HOUSE WILL INDICATE FATE OF MEASURE
THERE

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Feb. 14.—A test vote on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill as approved by the senate may be reached in the house today.

The vote will be on adoption of a special rule substituting the senate bill for a sister measure now under consideration by the house. Farm leaders say the result will clearly indicate the fate of the measure in the house.

Chairman Snell, republican, New York, was expected to call a rules committee meeting this morning to approve a resolution for submission to the house authorizing displacement of the house bill by the senate measure.

The committee is certain to grant the rule.

Presentation of the rule in the house will come after conclusion of the remaining three hours of general debate. It is probable the rule will provide for an additional two hours of debate so senate amendments may be discussed. This will postpone reading the senate bill for amendments until late tomorrow.

Farm leaders are determined to rush the bill through without change thus obviating a conference with the senate over changes and speeding its dispatch to President Coolidge for approval.

"We expect wholesale attempts," Rep. Dickinson, republican, Iowa, farm leader, said, "to change the measure so it will have to go to conference but we will use our voting power to see there is no delay."

Dickinson believes the most difficult task for supporters of the McNary bill is to defeat the Aswell bill when it is offered as a substitute. He claims the movements to substitute the Curtis-Crisp loan measure is waning as a result of its defeat in the senate. The Aswell bill is practically identical with the Curtis-Crisp bill except that it sets up a revolving fund for loans of $100,000,000 instead of $250,000,000.

GIANT SEAPLANE FAILS TO BREAK ENDURANCE RECORD

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Rain and engine trouble caused the giant seaplane PB-1 to fail in its attempt to break existing endurance records, Lieut. Frank Whitmore, its pilot, said today.

The machine remained in the air 15 hours and six minutes before it was forced down.

With a crew of four, 1,950 gallons of gasoline and 60 gallons of oil, the great ship took the air Saturday in an attempt to remain in flight 33 hours. She landed here yesterday unable further to battle the storm with her faulty engines.

CHARGES RAIDS WERE TIPPED OFF

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Chester P. Mills, prohibition director for New York, today was charged by Rep. La Guardia, republican, New York, with "wilfully and deliberately tipping off" dry law violators before raids.

In a letter to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, La Guardia called attention to Friday and Saturday afternoon editions of New York newspapers, which he said announced a series of projected raids on night clubs and restaurants. La Guardia charged the newspaper stories of the contemplated raids emanated from Mills' office.

LOOT WAS FOUND CRAMMED IN

VENTILATORS

San Francisco, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Discovery of more than $17,000 in small bills, part of the $51,000 stolen on the steamer Colombia while it was en route between La Libertad, San Salvador and San Pedro, was made early today.

The loot, consisting of $2, $5 and $20 bills, was found crammed in four bottles hidden in a ventilator on the main deck.

Police Detective Earle W. Hull of Los Angeles and Fred I. Weddle, representative of a Los Angeles insurance firm, discovered the money and announced that three members of the crew were under "suspicion" and that an arrest may be made later today.

The fact that the money was discovered in a place that had been searched several times yesterday led officers to believe that the thief or thieves are still aboard and were planning to remove the money today.

The unrecovered portion of the $51,000 consists of bonds valued at $10,000 and bills of $50, $100 and $1,000 denominations. More than $1,000 of the stolen money was found hidden on the ship when it docked here Saturday.

PENDING OUTCOME OF DIVORCE
SUIT FILED BY ESTRANGED WIFE

Los Angeles, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Because she is "broke," attorneys for Lita Grey Chaplin, estranged wife of Charlie Chaplin, said they would ask court permission today for her to live in Chaplin's home pending outcome of her divorce suit.

Mrs. Chaplin, her attorneys declared, is unable to pay the rent of her $10,000 a year house. She took it six weeks ago when the court awarded her $4,000 monthly temporary alimony.

"The blocking of every effort made by Ms. Chaplin to collect the money awarded her makes it necessary for her to give up the rented house," Edwin McMurray, one of her lawyers, said.

"There is no reason why she and her children should not occupy Chaplin's home. We will ask the court to grant them permission to live there."

COLLIDE IN HEAVY FOG NEAR HULL

PASSENGERS INCLUDED HUNDREDS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

SIX COACHES WERE TELESCOPED
IN THE WRECK

London, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Twelve were reported killed and 15 seriously injured today when the Withernsea-Hull Express carrying hundreds of school children, collided head-on in a fog near Hull with the Hull-Scarborough Express.

Six coaches, mostly filled with children, were telescoped.

A salon coach, containing business men, was wrecked.

The wreck was near the scene of a similar collision ten days ago. It was partly attributed to the fog which began its fourth day in the British Isles and has been responsible for numerous accidents.

Two vessels were sunk off the coast and nine damaged.

The Norwegian steamship Raa was officially reported sunk after she had been abandoned by her crew with the engines running, and let loose in the channel. The Raa was in collision with the Norwegian steamer Godrejevee.

The Norwegians, believing their ship sinking, put off in boats, the engine crew fearing to return to the hold to stop the engines. With no hand at the helm, they heard the ship throbbing away until the sound died off in the distance.

A general radio alarm was broadcast, since it was feared that even after the fires died out and the ship stopped, she might be carried by the tide directly in the path of the busy commerce of the channel.

Other collisions reported included that between the Admiral line tanker Olander and the Royal Mail steamer Nebraska, south of Dungeness. Both were slightly damaged.

The Swedish steamer Bard and the Norwegian vessel Baltic collided, with the Bard reported damaged.

The City of Tokio, a 7,000-ton British ship, went ashore off Margate Saturday and tugs worked all night before she was released.

The fog was showing signs of lifting at noon today after shipping had been virtually paralyzed.

Shipping was further endangered off Bolt Tail, Devonshire, on the south coast, by the presence of large floating mines.

In addition to the Raa, an unidentified ship was reported to have sunk.

The 1,031-ton Swedish steamer Framnas was rammed while anchored in Dungeness Bay by the British steamer Dryntawe and the crew was taken off.

Cordoba, Argentine, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Despondent because his wife had abandoned him, Antonio Plevan lit a fuse attached to a stick of dynamite, placed the dynamite beneath a chair and sat down.

PRES. COOLIDGE WAITS ANSWER TO DISARMAMENT

FOREIGN NATIONS EXPECTED TO SUBMIT REPLIES TO HIS PLEA

UNOFFICIAL REPORTS FROM PARIS AND ROME PARTLY DISCOURAGING

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—President Coolidge waited today for the foreign nations' answer to his disarmament plea.

On the president's desk are the unofficial reports from Paris and Rome partly discouraging, and perhaps foreshadowing eventual failure.

But he has not given up hope. Conscious of undivided support from his countrymen and looking toward the war-weary peoples abroad, the president believes none of the four naval powers will refuse flatly his invitation to seek a solution together.

The president is represented as understanding how friendly governments may fail to reach a final agreement on such a difficult problem. But, in making his proposal, he was positive they would all be ready at least to attempt an agreement on the lines laid down.

If Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy are unable after discussion with the United States to limit auxiliary naval craft, the president plans to make one last effort toward further disarmament by proposing a three-power pact with Britain and Japan.

Persons close to the White House believe that any foreign opposition will only strengthen his determination to exhaust every possibility of agreement, before reluctantly throwing the United States into an armament race.

The house of commons will have an opportunity to debate President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposals, Premier Baldwin intimated today in replying to a member who urged immediate acceptance of the proposals.

The naval limitation suggestion, Baldwin said, "was receiving the earnest consideration of his majesty's government," but it was too early to make any statement of the government's views.

GEO. F. BAKER TO HEAD THE BODY HANDLING TRANSFER

DEPOSITING COMMITTEE FOR SUCH PURPOSE HAS BEEN NAMED

TRANSFER PLAN TO BE MADE PUBLIC IN NEW YORK
TUESDAY

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—George F. Baker, New York financier, will head the depositing committee that will handle the transfer of stock in the proposed consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, it was learned today.

The transfer plan will be made public in New York Tuesday when stockholders will be notified, the United Press was reliably informed today.

The original railroad plan to form a holding company to lease the lines of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad has been abandoned. In its place, it is proposed to form a corporation to lease the Spokane, Portland and Seattle. This company then would exchange its stock for that of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, share for share.

Before the plan is presented to the interstate commerce commission, it will have to receive the approval of the stockholders of the two Northerns, but no objection from that quarter is anticipated.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific now jointly control the stock of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle.

SCIENTIST DIES FROM INJURIES OF CAR MISHAP

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Dr. Robert W. Archibald, 37, of the Minnesota health department, died in Adams hospital here early today from injuries sustained Thursday in an automobile crash on the road near Nashauk.

Death of Dr. Archibald was unexpected as he had improved in the several days following the accident.

Internal injuries, fracture of the pelvis and injuries about the head were contributory causes to the bacteriologist's death.

Mrs. Archibald, who was with her husband at the time of his death, planned to take the body to Minneapolis some time today. Definite funeral arrangements are waiting the arrival of other relatives from New England but it was believed burial would be in Minneapolis.

Dr. E. E. Carter, assistant to Dr. Archibald, also injured in the Nashauk crash, is reported at the hospital as rapidly improving.

The crash occurred when the automobile in which they were riding skidded from the ice-rutted road and crashed into a viaduct along the road.

Police Detective Earle W. Hull of Los Angeles and Fred I. Weddle, representative of a Los Angeles insurance firm, discovered the money and announced that three members of the crew were under "suspicion" and that an arrest may be made later today.

The fact that the money was discovered in a place that had been searched several times yesterday led officers to believe that the thief or thieves are still aboard and were planning to remove the money today.

The unrecovered portion of the $51,000 consists of bonds valued at $10,000 and bills of $50, $100 and $1,000 denominations. More than $1,000 of the stolen money was found hidden on the ship when it docked here Saturday.

MRS. CHAPLIN SEEKS TO LIVE IN CHAPLIN HOME

HER ATTORNEYS ASK COURT PERMISSION TO MAKE IT HER DOMICILE

SUIT FILED BY ESTRANG-ED WIFE

Los Angeles, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Because she is "broke," attorneys for Lita Grey Chaplin, estranged wife of Charlie Chaplin, said they would ask court permission today for her to live in Chaplin's home pending outcome of her divorce suit.

Mrs. Chaplin, her attorneys declared, is unable to pay the rent of her $10,000 a year house. She took it six weeks ago when the court awarded her $4,000 monthly temporary alimony.

"The blocking of every effort made by Mrs. Chaplin to collect the money awarded her makes it necessary for her to give up the rented house," Edwin McMurray, one of her lawyers, said.

"There is no reason why she and her children should not occupy Chaplin's home. We will ask the court to grant them permission to live there."

OUR DAILY QUAKE REPORT— BELGRADE SHAKEN

Belgrade, Feb. 14.—(UP)—A severe earthquake jarred Herzegovina today. It was reported that several persons had been killed and that the damage was extensive.

COLLIDE IN HEAVY FOG NEAR HULL

PASSENGERS INCLUDED HUND-REDS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

SIX COACHES WERE TELESCOP-ED IN THE WRECK

London, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Twelve were reported killed and 15 seriously injured today when the Withernsea-Hull Express carrying hundreds of school children, collided head-on in a fog near Hull with the Hull-Scarborough Express.

Six coaches, mostly filled with children, were telescoped.

A salon coach, containing business men, was wrecked.

The wreck was near the scene of a similar collision ten days ago. It was partly attributed to the fog which began its fourth day in the British Isles and has been responsible for numerous accidents.

Two vessels were sunk off the coast and nine damaged.

The Norwegian steamship Raa was officially reported sunk after she had been abandoned by her crew with the engines running, and let loose in the channel. The Raa was in collision with the Norwegian steamer Godrejveva.

The Norwegians, believing their ship sinking, put off in boats, the engine crew fearing to return to the hold to stop the engines. With no hand at the helm, they heard the ship throbbing away until the sound died off in the distance.

A general radio alarm was broadcast, since it was feared that even after the fires died out and the ship stopped, she might be carried by the tide directly in the path of the busy commerce of the channel.

Other collisions reported included that between the Admiral line tanker Olander and the Royal Mail steamer Nebraska, south of Dungeness. Both were slightly damaged.

The Swedish steamer Bard and the Norwegian vessel Baltic collided, with the Bard reported damaged.

The City of Tokio, a 7,000-ton British ship, went ashore off Margate Saturday and tugs worked all night before she was released.

The fog was showing signs of lifting at noon today after shipping had been virtually paralyzed.

Shipping was further endangered off Bolt Tail, Devonshire, on the south coast, by the presence of large floating mines.

In addition to the Raa, an unidentified ship was reported to have sunk.

The 1,031-ton Swedish steamer Frammas was rammed while anchored in Dungeness Bay by the British steamer Dryntawe and the crew was taken off.

FORMER CASHIER PLEADS GUILTY

Hastings, Minn., Feb. 14.—(UP)—B. G. Gergen, former cashier of the closed Farmers' and Merchants' State Bank of Hampton, Minn., today pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny.

Judge W. A. Schultz postponed sentence until Saturday.

Gergen was under indictment on two counts charging him with appropriating $5,000 from the bank. He had been at liberty under bond of $10,000 following an earlier plea of not guilty.

CONJURES PICTURE OF WHOLESALE MILK BOOTLEGGING

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Enactment to the Lenroot-Tabor bill restricting importation of Canadian milk will result in wholesale milk bootlegging, a far more serious menace than liquor bootlegging, Dr. Louis I. Harris, New York health commissioner, told President Coolidge today.

PUTS DYNAMITE UNDER HIS CHAIR, BLOWS SELF UP

Cordoba, Argentina, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Despondent because his wife had abandoned him, Antonio Plevan lit a fuse attached to a stick of dynamite, placed the dynamite beneath a chair and sat down.

The explosion destroyed Plevan's house, shattered windows within a radius of a block and hurled Plevan in all directions. A portion of his body was found 800 feet from the scene of the suicide.

SUBMIT REPLIES TO HIS PLEA

DISCOURAGING

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—President Coolidge waited today for the foreign nations' answer to his disarmament plea.

On the president's desk are the unofficial reports from Paris and Rome partly discouraging, and perhaps foreshadowing eventual failure.

But he has not given up hope. Conscious of undivided support from his countrymen and looking toward the war-weary peoples abroad, the president believes none of the four naval powers will refuse flatly his invitation to seek a solution together.

The president is represented as understanding how friendly governments may fail to reach a final agreement on such a difficult problem. But, in making his proposal, he was positive they would all be ready at least to attempt an agreement on the lines laid down.

If Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy are unable after discussion with the United States to limit auxiliary naval craft, the president plans to make one last effort toward further disarmament by proposing a three-power pact with Britain and Japan.

Persons close to the White House believe that any foreign opposition will only strengthen his determination to exhaust every possibility of agreement, before reluctantly throwing the United States into an armament race.

The house of commons will have an opportunity to debate President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposals. Premier Baldwin intimated today in replying to a member who urged immediate acceptance of the proposals.

The naval limitation suggestion, Baldwin said, "was receiving the earnest consideration of his majesty's government," but it was too early to make any statement of the government's views.

Three Churches Speak on Strike of Western Maryland Enginemen

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Three important church organizations were on record today as holding chiefly responsible the management of the Western Maryland railway for the 15 months' strike of its enginemen.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is the chief stockholder, but the report showed he had sought unsuccessfully to induce arbitration and had not sided with the management in its strike policy.

GEO. F. BAKER TO HEAD THE BODY HANDLING TRANSFER

DEPOSITING COMMITTEE FOR SUCH PURPOSE HAS BEEN NAMED

TRANSFER PLAN TO BE MADE
TUESDAY

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—George F. Baker, New York financier, will head the depositing committee that will handle the transfer of stock in the proposed consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, it was learned today.

The transfer plan will be made public in New York Tuesday when stockholders will be notified, the United Press was reliably informed today.

The original railroad plan to form a holding company to lease the lines of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad has been abandoned. In its place, it is proposed to form a corporation to lease the Spokane, Portland and Seattle. This company then would exchange its stock for that of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, share for share.

Before the plan is presented to the interstate commerce commission, it will have to receive the approval of the stockholders of the two Northerns, but no objection from that quarter is anticipated.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific now jointly control the stock of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle.

SCIENTIST DIES FROM INJURIES OF CAR MISHAP

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Dr. Robert W. Archibald, 37, of the Minnesota health department, died in Adams hospital here early today from injuries sustained Thursday in an automobile crash, on the road near Nashua.

Death of Dr. Archibald was unexpected as he had improved in the several days following the accident.

Internal injuries, fracture of the pelvis and injuries about the head were contributory causes to the bacteriologist's death.

Mrs. Archibald, who was with her husband at the time of his death, planned to take the body to Minneapolis some time today. Definite funeral arrangements are waiting the arrival of other relatives from New England but it was believed burial would be in Minneapolis.

Dr. E. E. Carter, assistant to Dr. Archibald, also injured in the Nashua crash, is reported at the hospital as rapidly improving.

The crash occurred when the automobile in which they were riding skidded from the ice-rutted road and crashed into a viaduct along the road.

PROGRESS OF THE BRAINERD BOYS' CONCERT BAND

By CARL ZAPFFE JR.

The Piccolo Section

The piccolo section is unique in several respects. It contains but one player the same one that started with the organization at its conception, four years ago. Writing about this section is like writing a biography of the last four years of Guy Hawkin's life. It is worthy of mention that Guy lives where street lights are few and at a very long distance from the place of rehearsal but that has not prevented him from attending regularly. We envy Guy because he can carry his instrument in his pocket.

The piccolo rarely has solo part or even parts that continue through many bars at a time. Capable of producing bird-like, warbling variations makes it an essential thing to any band. It is the only instrument that can produce shrill tones and rapid runs over a wide range, thereby introducing very pleasing effects not obtainable on other instruments. Though the instrument is small it has great power and in a band piccolo players are rarely numerous.

Grains of Salt

Let's wife was turned into a pillar of salt instantaneously. The rest of us, according to Dr. Jean Bonchon, eminent French surgeon, are undergoing the same process more gradually, but with hardly less eventual thoroughness.

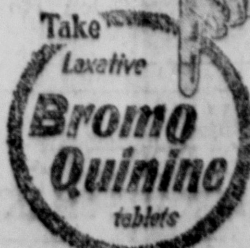

Salt, says the learned surgeon, is a poison which dries up and hardens the muscular tissues, causes appendicitis, gastric ulcer and liver and renal calculus. Moreover—most ominous threat of all—salt has an injurious effect on the intelligence.

Those who habitually reach for the salt cellar before even tasting food will read this pronouncement and ponder. Even the layman knows that salt has an affinity for water and draws out the juices from animal tissues, juices which are not replaced by the water imbibed to quench salt-caused thirst. In the light of that knowledge the French doctor's theory carries at least enough conviction to make one thoughtful. A moderate amount of salt is necessary to the bodily chemistry. Too much may indeed be a poison.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Standards Vary as to

Man's Hours of Sleep

An older school of moralists, and possibly an older school of doctors, would have been gravely shocked by the suggestion, just made by an expert in mental diseases, that even eight hours' sleep a day is not necessarily enough for a man.

"Eight for a man, nine for a woman and ten for a fool," was given by Sir Robert Armstrong Jones in his lecture to the Medical society of London as the old standard, but he added that he would reverse the order and give ten to the men.

Even the lecturer's version of the old standard seems more generous than the facts; not eight hours' sleep but seven was definitely laid down in the famous health rules of Salerno, and enough for either a young man or an old one, and some ancient authorities were ready to brand as sluggish the man who slept for longer than six hours out of twenty-four. Indeed, to judge by its proverbs and precepts the world of three or four hundred years ago was constantly at war with the sluggards, and forever maintaining a stiff fight against the undue claims of sleep.

Here and there an isolated hero like Sancho Panza stands up to praise sleep and its inventor, or the Venetians produce a proverb which recommends slumber as a sort of medicine, but in general both doctors of medicine and divinity seem to have agreed that sleep was the enemy of their age. Like the Dormouse at the Mad Hatter's tea party, the public at large was always being well shaken and told to cast off dull sloth and joyful rise.

The picture is the more curious because so little is heard of such rebukes today; though we are fiercely warned by our medical advisers not to do many things, from overeating to underexercising, we are hardly ever expected to refrain from oversleeping. It is the one possible excess which no one bothers to rebuke; and here one eminent authority boldly declares that five-twelfths of the whole day may be spent in sleeping without reproach. Are we, then, so active that we need urging to slumber? And were our forefathers so sleepy that only the constant thunder of the sages could keep them awake? Strange as these conclusions seem, the facts appear to justify them.

PROGRESS OF THE BRAINERD BOYS' CONCERT BAND

By CARL ZAPPE JR.

The Piccolo Section
The piccolo section is unique in several respects. It contains but one player the same one that started with the organization at its conception, four years ago. Writing about this section is like writing a biography of the last four years of Guy Hawkin's life. It is worthy of mention that Guy lives where street lights are few and at a very long distance from the place of rehearsal but that has not prevented him from attending regularly. We envy Guy because he can carry his instrument in his pocket.

The piccolo rarely has solo parts or even parts that continue through many bars at a time. Capable of producing bird-like, warbling variations makes it an essential thing to any band. It is the only instrument that can produce shrill tones and rapid runs over a wide range, thereby introducing very pleasing effects not obtainable on other instruments. Though the instrument is small it has great power and in a band piccolo players are rarely numerous.

Grains of Salt

Let's wife was turned into a pillar of salt instantaneously. The rest of us, according to Dr. Jean Bouchon, eminent French surgeon, are undergoing the same process more gradually, but with hardly less eventual thoroughness.

Salt, says the learned surgeon, is a poison which dries up and hardens the muscular tissues, causes appendicitis, gastric ulcer and liver and renal calculus. Moreover—most ominous threat of all—salt has an injurious effect on the intelligence.

Those who habitually reach for the salt cellar before even tasting food will read this pronouncement and ponder. Even the layman knows that salt has an affinity for water and draws out the juices from animal tissues, juices which are not replaced by the water imbued to quench salt-caused thirst. In the light of that knowledge the French doctor's theory carries at least enough conviction to make one thoughtful. A moderate amount of salt is necessary to the bodily chemistry. Too much may indeed be a poison.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Standards Vary as to Man's Hours of Sleep

An older school of moralists, and possibly an older school of doctors, would have been gravely shocked by the suggestion, just made by an expert in mental diseases, that even eight hours' sleep a day is not necessarily enough for a man.

"Eight for a man, nine for a woman and ten for a fool," was given by Sir Robert Armstrong Jones in his lecture to the Medical society of London as the old standard, but he added that he would reverse the order and give ten to the men.

Even the lecturer's version of the old standard seems more generous than the facts; not eight hours' sleep but seven was definitely laid down in the famous health rules of Salerno, and enough for either a young man or an old one, and some ancient authorities were ready to brand as sluggish the man who slept for longer than six hours out of twenty-four. Indeed, to judge by its proverbs and precepts the world of three or four hundred years ago was constantly at war with the sluggards, and forever maintaining a stiff fight against the undue claims of sleep.

Here and there an isolated hero like Sancho Panza stands up to praise sleep and its inventor, or the Venetians produce a proverb which recommends slumber as a sort of medicine, but in general both doctors of medicine and divinity seem to have agreed that sleep was the enemy of their age. Like the Dormouse at the Mad Hatter's tea party, the public at large was always being well shaken and roiled to cast off dull sloth and joyful rise.

The picture is the more curious because so little is heard of such rebukes today; though we are fiercely warned by our medical advisers not to do many things, from overeating to underexercising, we are hardly ever expected to refrain from oversleeping. It is the one possible excess which no one bothers to rebuke; and here one eminent authority boldly declares that five-twelfths of the whole day may be spent in sleeping without reproach. Are we, then, so active that we need urging to slumber? And were our forefathers so sleepy that only the constant thunder of the sages could keep them awake? Strange as these conclusions seem, the facts appear to justify them.

WHAT IS LIFE SPAN OF FORD?

"Lizzie" of Charles Krueger Made Debut as No. 9486 Emblazoned on Engine Plate

COMES OF VINTAGE OF 1909

Weather Conditions Do Not Affect Her, Owner Takes Pride in Capable Performance

What is the life span of a Ford?
Do some live to see a grand old age?
What do they attribute to their longevity?

Last Friday, Charles Krueger, a farmer living on Star Route, 18 miles east of the city applied for an automobile license at the First National bank. It was just an annual matter-of-fact occurrence for him and he sensed nothing unusual when he made his demands known to the teller. Letting his thoughts idly wander as to what the amount of his next cream check would be and what would be best to plant in last year's potato patch he was aroused by the looks of blank astonishment on the teller's face. It isn't every day that a teller is privileged to make out a license for a machine like Mr. Krueger's and thereby hang a tale.

It soon became generally known to interested bystanders that Mr.
Krueger possesses a most remarkable Ford. A Ford, that has besides the usual well known qualities, an enviable mileage record and an exceptionally long and well lived life.
Years have stolen nothing from her and she still rattles on in the same happy carefree manner. One turn of her crank and she's rarin' to go off with Mr. Krueger, who is the salesman for the noted Ward products, on his various routes.

Way back in the "covered wagon" days of Fordism, 1909 or thereabouts, "Lizzie" as she is affectionately known, became a finished product and made her debut with No.
9486 emblazoned on her engine plate. It is not definitely known what happened before her departure for fields unknown but something must have lended a guiding hand to her present state of "one Ford in millions." Perhaps Mr. Ford sent her off with his parental blessings, perhaps she was made under a lucky star, perhaps she was born with a golden spoon in her mouth; infinite other possibilities may have held her from the junk pile and enabled her to continue, as in her youth to "run and hit on all fours." "Age cannot with her nor custom stale her infinite variety."

"Lizzie" served four years and ran 100,000 miles without a hitch for her first master and was sold to Mr.
Krueger in 1913 for the moderate sum of $75. Certainly, a bargain, for the Ford, has continued to give the same old reliable service year in and year out and with her marvelous record it is difficult to say what her end will be. She may yet bring fame and fortune to her present owner, she might sign for a vaudeville tour or enter the races at the state fair and it is a well known fact that Henry Ford has a decided fancy for antiques and a 1909 model T Ford, one of the first standard makes of cars that he ever put on the market should prove a valuable addition to complete a museum of "Fords in their infancy."

Mr. Krueger for several years past has made an annual trip to the local Ford agency and has inspected some of the 14,000,000 and more of her more modern and up-to-date sisters who have come into existence since "Lizzie's" day and he has always come away with the same thought that "old faithful" is still good for another season. Meanwhile the Ford looks on with a benign satisfaction, sighing and looking unutter-able things.

Weather conditions have no effect upon her, she runs winter and summer, Mr. Krueger never mistreats her and knowing quite a bit about cars, having at one time operated a garage at Lambert, Minn., he takes a great deal of pardonable pride in and fully appreciates his Ford which seems to have for its highest ambition, "Fords may come and Fords go but I'm going on forever."

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Feb. 12, 1902

Mrs. Joseph Kiebler Sr., yesterday while riding in the country was thrown from a sleigh and one of her ribs was broken.

Mrs. W. F. Dieckhaus left this afternoon for Duluth to visit her husband. While in the Zenith city she will be the guest of Mrs. J. H. Hall.
Last night the Jones Jolly Jokers gave a very pleasant dancing party, Gardner hall being crowded. The little Misses Ragans and Schaefer took the cake walk prize.

The city of Mankato was introduced to the world just 50 years ago today and there is a resident of Brainerd today who was one of the founders of the city in the person of P. K. Johnson, father of F. B. and
C. D. Johnson and Mrs. Julia Mc-Fadden.

Word came from St. Paul last night from Hon. A. F. Ferris that the development of the oil fields near Kansas City, Mo., in which many Brainerd gentlemen are interested has proven very successful and that a rich find of paraffin oil has been made, which will net the investors a neat income.

There are several gentlemen heavily interested in these lands besides Mr. Ferris in this city, among whom are J. M. Elder, F. B. Johnson, Bolin and Wood, W. E. Seelye and George D. LaBar. Some of these gentlemen have invested very heavily and if as reports indicate the company has struck it rich they will make a "barrel of money."

Victorian Orators

The marquis of Huntly knew most of the leading political figures of the Victorian era, and in his recent book of reminiscences he contrasts the methods of some of the great parliamentarians. The most successful speakers, he says, are not those who wave their arms with perforce declamation. Parnell, who never moved from an erect attitude, and spoke in measured sentences, with a cynical manner, was very effective. Dilke, on the other hand, in speeches crammed full of knowledge, was too verbose, and seemed to tire the house. Joseph Chamberlain, in his clear-cut tones, with a penetrating and incisive voice, his right arm moving slowly to point or emphasize a remark, was one of the most delightful speakers to listen to.
The marquis of Huntly adds that Sir William Harcourt was fluent and bombastic.

BOUND OVER TO DISTRICT COURT

Preliminary Hearing of Rose La Freniere and C. J.
McCabe

HELD THIS MORNING

McCabe Charged With Forgery of A.
C. Mraz's Name to Check

The preliminary hearing was held this morning in the case of Rose La Freniere, Staples girl, charged with attempting to pass a check for $50 on the J. C. Penney Co. and C. J.
McCabe, charged with forgery of the name of A. C. Mraz, assistant cashier of the First National bank to the check.

Both were turned over to the district court by Municipal Judge Koop to stand trial at the May term.

R. E. Wyett, manager of the Penney Co. store here was the first state witness called. He identified Rose La Freniere as the girl who entered his store on February 5.

On the request of County Attorney
W. F. Wieland to tell the circumstances, Mr. Wyett stated that the girl purchased a dress and a hat which amounted to $14 in payment of which she presented a check to which was affixed the name of A. C.
Mraz. The check was endorsed on the back, by the name of Martha Parks, Riverton, Minn., of Chicago, 334 Winchester avenue South.

Mr. Wyett stated that on presentation of the check to him he was certain that the signature was not that of A. C. Mraz. He stated that while he was telephoning Mr. Mraz to make certain of the validity of the check the lady left the store, but did not take the purchases she had made.

A. C. Mraz was the second state witness. He stated that the signature on the check was not his and that it was not even a fair representation of his signature.

In the hearing of the case of C. J.
McCabe, R. E. Wyett, A. C. Mraz, Sheriff Claus Theorin and Special Officer Carl Jacobson were called as state witnesses.

Sheriff Theorin testified that Mc-Cabe had stated to him that he had written the check and left it with the girl.

Donald Ryan, of the law firm of Ryan, Ryan, and Ryan, appeared for the defendants.

Think It Over

A straight line is the shortest in morals as in mathematics.

Early "Sunday Closing"

The Sunday closing of saloons got its first impetus from Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, about the middle of the Seventeenth century, when he forbade the sale of intoxicants on the Sabbath day until after preaching.

In those days the town was dotted with taverns. It has been estimated that a fourth of the buildings were devoted to the sale of brandy, tobacco and beer. Some of the places had become nothing more than fight clubs, with a brawl every night. Stuyvesant bent on cleaning up the town, ordered that no new taverns should be licensed except by the unanimous consent of the town's officials. He also ordered the proprietors to occupy decent houses, report all brawls, and stop selling liquor to the savages, who were given to getting full of "fire-water" and testing their lung power and their tomahawks in the public streets.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS OF SPRING STYLES

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Feb. 12. — (UP)— "Coming events cast their shadows before them," reiterates the ground hog. Stylists are already casting Spring shadows for our approval which make our Winter wardrobe look as flat as last week's pancake.

Navy blue is the outstanding color for Spring street costumes including suits, coats, sports frocks, hats and afternoon gowns. All shades of blue are represented on the Spring color chart. Vitreous, a soft deep blue which one associates with stained glass windows, is sponsored by some of the leading Parisian stylists. Indigo, electric, turquoise, king and greenish blues are all represented.
Hard bright blues are even included.
Often two tones of blue are used on the costume. In fact, two-toned ideas in various color schemes will be so popular this year that stocking manufacturers are stressing stockings of gray, tan or blond shades with black heels. Gunmetal stockings with black heels are already well represented at smart gatherings and it is thought that these will be replaced by lighter stockings with black heels later on. Black and white is a favored coat and gown combination. Chinese lacquer red is a new frock shade stressed for wear under black cloth coats.

In speaking of black cloth coats, one mustn't neglect mentioning monkey fur trimming. A large percentage of black coats are collared and cuffed in deep monkey fur.
Sometimes black and white monkey are combined on collars and cuffs.

Cut-steel buckles are being used on dressy afternoon shoes. Black is an important Spring shoe color and the buckle comes as an advance trimming style. "Colored shoes have buckles of self color and thus we see instances of gun metal suede with gun metal buckles, brown suede or kid with bronze buckles, etc. Evening slippers continue to use rhinestone buckles and heels.

If it's in print this year, it's in fine print. Tiny floral figures and small geometrical designs are replacing larger patterns on Spring silks. Quaint patterned silks are more important than larger and more colorful patterns.

WHAT IS LIFE SPAN OF FORD?

"Lizzie" of Charles Krueger Made Debut as No. 9486 Emblazoned on Engine Plate

COMES OF VINTAGE OF 1909

Weather Conditions Do Not Affect Her, Owner Takes Pride in Capable Performance

What is the life span of a Ford? Do some live to see a grand old age? What do they attribute to their longevity?

Last Friday, Charles Krueger, a farmer living on Star Route, 18 miles east of the city applied for an automobile license at the First National bank. It was just an annual matter-of-fact occurrence for him and he sensed nothing unusual when he made his demands known to the teller. Letting his thoughts idly wander as to what the amount of his next cream check would be and what would be best to plant in last year's potato patch he was aroused by the looks of blank astonishment on the teller's face. It isn't every day that a teller is privileged to make out a license for a machine like Mr. Krueger's and thereby hangs a tale.

It soon became generally known to interested bystanders that Mr. Krueger possesses a most remarkable Ford. A Ford, that has besides the usual well known qualities, an enviable mileage record and an exceptionally long and well lived life. Years have stolen nothing from her and she still rattles on in the same happy carefree manner. One turn of her crank and she's rarin' to go off with Mr. Krueger, who is the salesman for the noted Ward products, on his various routes.

Way back in the "covered wagon" days of Fordom, 1909 or thereabouts, "Lizzie" as she is affectionately known, became a finished product and made her debut with No. 9486 emblazoned on her engine plate. It is not definitely known what happened before her departure for fields unknown but something must have lended a guiding hand to her present state of "one Ford in millions." Perhaps Mr. Ford sent her off with his parental blessings, perhaps she was made under a lucky star, perhaps she was born with a golden spoon in her mouth; infinite other possibilities may have held her from the junk pile and enabled her to continue, as in her youth to "run and hit on all fours." "Age cannot wither her nor custom stale her infinite variety."

"Lizzie" served four years and ran 100,000 miles without a hitch for her first master and was sold to Mr. Krueger in 1913 for the moderate sum of $75. Certainly, a bargain, for the Ford, has continued to give the same old reliable service year in and year out and with her marvelous record it is difficult to say what her end will be. She may yet bring fame and fortune to her present owner, she might sign for a vaudeville tour or enter the races at the state fair and it is a well known fact that Henry Ford has a decided fancy for antiques and a 1909 model T Ford, one of the first standard makes of cars that he ever put on the market should prove a valuable addition to complete a museum of "Fords in their infancy."

Mr. Krueger for several years past has made an annual trip to the local Ford agency and has inspected some of the 14,000,000 and more of her more modern and up-to-date sisters who have come into existence since "Lizzie's" day and he has always come away with the same thought that "old faithful" is still good for another season. Meanwhile the Ford looks on with a benign satisfaction, sighing and looking unutterable things.

Weather conditions have no effect upon her, she runs winter and summer, Mr. Krueger never mistreats her and knowing quite a bit about cars, having at one time operated a garage at Lambert, Minn., he takes a great deal of pardonable pride in and fully appreciates his Ford which seems to have for its highest ambition, "Fords may come and Fords go but I'm going on forever."

Gorgeous Gowns Worn by Miss Vidor and Nissen

Life for a fashionable Parisienne is a gay and colorful affair, if judged by the splendor and diversity of the wardrobes provided for Florence Vidor and Greta Nissen, star and featured player in "The Popular Sin," a new Malcolm St. Clair Paramount production, coming to the Lyceum theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Versatile Dix Attracts Again

That young gentleman who has a winning smile as well as a punch in both of his capable fists is holding forth tonight at the Lyceum theatre with his newest Paramount screen offering "Paradise for Two." Before an highly appreciative audience last night at the opening performance, Dix turned loose the whole bag of tricks and treated to one of the best exhibitions of his cinema career.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Mrs. Joseph Klebler Sr., yesterday while riding in the country was thrown from a sleigh and one of her ribs was broken.

Mrs. W. F. Dieckhaus left this afternoon for Duluth to visit her husband. While in the Zenith city she will be the guest of Mrs. J. H. Hall. Last night the Jones Jolly Jokers gave a very pleasant dancing party, Gardner hall being crowded. The little Misses Ragans and Schaefer took the cake walk prize.

The city of Mankato was introduced to the world just 50 years ago today and there is a resident of Brainerd today who was one of the founders of the city in the person of P. K. Johnson, father of F. B. and C. D. Johnson and Mrs. Julia McFadden.

Word came from St. Paul last night from Hon. A. F. Ferris that the development of the oil fields near Kansas City, Mo., in which many Brainerd gentlemen are interested has proven very successful and that a rich find of paraffin oil has been made, which will net the investors a neat income.

There are several gentlemen heavily interested in these lands besides Mr. Ferris in this city, among whom are J. M. Elder, F. B. Johnson, Bolin and Wood, W. E. Seelye and George D. LaBar. Some of these gentlemen have invested very heavily and if as reports indicate the company has struck it rich they will make a "barrel of money."

Victorian Orators

The marquis of Huntly knew most of the leading political figures of the Victorian era, and in his recent book of reminiscences he contrasts the methods of some of the great parliamentarians. The most successful speakers, he says, are not those who wave their arms with perverted declamation, Parnell, who never moved from an erect attitude, and spoke in measured sentences, with a cynical manner, was very effective. Dilke, on the other hand, in speeches crammed full of knowledge, was too verbose, and seemed to tire the house. Joseph Chamberlain, in his clear-cut tones, with a penetrating and incisive voice, his right arm moving slowly to point or emphasize a remark, was one of the most delightful speakers to listen to. The marquis of Huntly adds that Sir William Harcourt was fluent and bombastic.

BOUND OVER TO DISTRICT COURT

Preliminary Hearing of Rose La Freniere and C. J. McCabe

HELD THIS MORNING

McCabe Charged With Forgery of A. C. Mraz's Name to Check

The preliminary hearing was held this morning in the case of Rose La Freniere, Staples girl, charged with attempting to pass a check for $50 on the J. C. Penney Co. and C. J. McCabe, charged with forgery of the name of A. C. Mraz, assistant cashier of the First National bank to the check.

Both were turned over to the district court by Municipal Judge Koop to stand trial at the May term.

R. E. Wyett, manager of the Penney Co. store here was the first state witness called. He identified Rose La Freniere as the girl who entered his store on February 5.

On the request of County Attorney W. F. Wieland to tell the circumstances, Mr. Wyett stated that the girl purchased a dress and a hat which amounted to $14 in payment of which she presented a check to which was affixed the name of A. C. Mraz. The check was endorsed on the back, by the name of Martha Parks, Riverton, Minn., of Chicago, 334 Winchester avenue South.

Mr. Wyett stated that on presentation of the check to him he was certain that the signature was not that of A. C. Mraz. He stated that while he was telephoning Mr. Mraz to make certain of the validity of the check the lady left the store, but did not take the purchases she had made.

A. C. Mraz was the second state witness. He stated that the signature on the check was not his and that it was not even a fair representation of his signature.

In the hearing of the case of C. J. McCabe, R. E. Wyett, A. C. Mraz, Sheriff Claus Theorin and Special Officer Carl Jacobson were called as state witnesses.

Sheriff Theorin testified that McCabe had stated to him that he had written the check and left it with the girl.

Donald Ryan, of the law firm of Ryan, Ryan, and Ryan, appeared for the defendants.

Early "Sunday Closing"

The Sunday closing of saloons got its first impetus from Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, about the middle of the Seventeenth century, when he forbade the sale of intoxicants on the Sabbath day until after preaching.

In those days the town was dotted with taverns. It has been estimated that a fourth of the buildings were devoted to the sale of brandy, tobacco and beer. Some of the places had become nothing more than fight clubs, with a brawl every night. Stuyvesant bent on cleaning up the town, ordered that no new taverns should be licensed except by the unanimous consent of the town's officials. He also ordered the proprietors to occupy decent houses, report all brawls, and stop selling liquor to the savages, who were given to getting full of "firewater" and testing their lung power and their tomahawks in the public streets.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS OF SPRING STYLES

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Feb. 12. — (UP)—"Coming events cast their shadows before them," reiterates the ground hog. Stylists are already casting Spring shadows for our approval which make our Winter wardrobe look as flat as last week's pancake.

Navy blue is the outstanding color for Spring street costumes including suits, coats, sports frocks, hats and afternoon gowns. All shades of blue are represented on the Spring color chart. Vitreous, a soft deep blue which one associates with stained glass windows, is sponsored by some of the leading Parisian stylists. Indigo, electric, turquoise, king and greenish blues are all represented. Hard bright blues are even included. Often two tones of blue are used on the costume. In fact, two-toned ideas in various color schemes will be so popular this year that stocking manufacturers are stressing stockings of gray, tan or blond shades with black heels. Gunmetal stockings with black heels are already well represented at smart gatherings and it is thought that these will be replaced by lighter stockings with black heels later on. Black and white is a favored coat and gown combination. Chinese lacquer red is a new frock shade stressed for wear under black cloth coats.

In speaking of black cloth coats, one mustn't neglect mentioning monkey fur trimming. A large percentage of black coats are collared and cuffed in deep monkey fur. Sometimes black and white monkey are combined on collars and cuffs. Cut-steel buckles are being used on dressy afternoon shoes. Black is an important Spring shoe color and the buckle comes as an advance trimming style. "Colored" shoes have buckles of self color and thus we see instances of gun metal suede with gun metal buckles, brown suede or kid with bronze buckles, etc. Evening slippers continue to use rhinestone buckles and heels.

If it's in print this year, it's in the print. Tiny floral figures and small geometrical designs are replacing larger patterns on Spring silks. Quaint patterned silks are more important than larger and more colorful patterns.

THE UNIVERSITY'S PLEA FOR FUNDS

THE DISPATCH is pleased to print this statement from President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota, relative to funds required to properly conduct that institution.

"In its statement of needs for the coming biennium, the University is not 'demanding' anything," says President Coffman, "but it is telling the people of Minnesota what they should do for higher education if it is to be kept on the upgrade. And only by keeping it on the upgrade can it be prevented from heading towards inefficiency and stagnation."

"When the University points out the sum it needs to operate on a basis of reasonable efficiency," says the statement, "it is merely putting into words the same situation that everyone recognizes without challenge when it arises in his own business. When expanding patronage makes it necessary to add to the number of his employees or to pay a little more so that those already employed may be retained, the manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer is not likely to quibble. The farmer, also, adjusts his outgo to the increasing demands of his establishment if it is run on a business basis."

"The University administration is not in the business of nagging and heckling the Minnesota public so that it may get more funds, either at the expense of the taxpayers or of other public institutions. We consider that it is our duty as public servants to operate the University of Minnesota effectively and to let the public know what money is needed to accomplish such a purpose."

"The University makes no effort to attract to it increasing numbers of students. The new students come in response to the recognized value of the training they may obtain here. They are Minnesotans seeking the services of a Minnesota institution, established and maintained by the people of Minnesota, probably there is not a single person in the state who would not suffer actual hardships rather than be deprived of the privileges of free government and widespread popular education."

"Every Minnesotan knows in his heart that the state's educational system is an inalienable and superlatively important part of the order of things, yet indirect thinking has led many to misjudging what have come to be called the 'University demands.'"

THE "POLITICAL RELIGION" OF AMERICA

THE Staples World calls attention to the fact that on January 27, 1837, just 90 years ago, Abraham Lincoln addressed the Young Men's Lyceum, at Springfield, Ill., during which he outlined the "political religion" of America in the following language:

"Let every American, lover of liberty, well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor—let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty."

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling-books and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice, and in short, let it become the political religion of the nation, and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all our sexes and tongues and colors and conditions, sacrifice unceasingly upon its altar."

A WINTER DRIVING HAZARD

MOTORISTS driving cars off regular cement highways must exercise caution in negotiating the plowed roads. Snowplows, of course, leave smoothed surfaces and the motorist cannot tell whether his car, when turning out for another, will rest on hard surface or penetrate a ditch which the plowed snow has tightly covered.

Several reports have reached the Brainerd Dispatch of cars overturning in snow covered angles. A case in point is that of L. W. Sherlund who turned out for an approaching car. His automobile broke through the snow covering, overturned in the ditch and then whirled about and righted itself, the accident happening about two miles from New York Mills.

THE United States has a problem in the shape of a million people who entered the country illegally, who lack certificates of admission, who cannot become citizens under existing laws. Many have become established here, have built nice homes and engaged in prosperous business ventures. They have lost the citizenship of their own country, have acquired no citizenship in the United States and thus are people without a country.

ACCORDING to "Minnesota Municipalities," February issue, in opening a new pump and purifying station for the Metropolitan Water Board, London, England, the Minister of Health mentioned that the board supplied water to a population greater than that of the whole of Canada, and that its mains, if stretched end to end, would reach to New York and back.

THE Hibbing council has passed a resolution providing that any person given employment by the village council shall have resided in the village at least two years and also shall be an American citizen.

SOME one lost a lot of harmony on the Gull lake road the other day, and a farmer picked up the bundle of orchestral music and brought it to the Brainerd Dispatch office for any possible claimant.

QUITE an interesting address was given at the Ladies Night meeting of the Staples Rotary club, Mrs. Annah Atwood taking as her topic, "My Husband Before and After Joining Rotary."

THE Wadena city council plans building three skating rinks this winter so that the children may have skating facilities.

THE auto license penalty starts after February 15, when 25 cents a day will be added to the fee.

THE DERELICT HE RECLAIMED

By HECTOR BLAKE

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman.)

"A BRAND from the burning!" proclaimed wheezy, parsimonious Daniel Britt. "I've put Bob Elston on his feet."

I hope he keeps his good resolutions which I—ha, hum—have tried to instill."

Old Britt indicated a figure going down the street. It was Bob Elston whom everybody in town knew for a ne'er-do-well, but pitied him and liked him.

As to Daniel Britt, the knowing ones smiled and shrugged their shoulders. It was true that he had given young Elston a suit of old clothes, but it was also current knowledge that Elston in some unaccountable spirit of sobriety had delved and labored in the Britt garden for a full ten days, receiving half pay.

Britt made great capital of his "charity" all that day. The next, however, his feathers dropped. More unsteady and ragged than ever, Bob Elston appeared on the streets of the village. He had sold his clothes and was back in his old attire. He was in a disgraceful condition.

"Did my duty, it's off my mind," commented Britt, and poor Bob as an acknowledged institution of the lower type of the time proceeded to prolong his spree.

It was about a week after that when Donald Pearce, a rising young lawyer of the town, coming down the turnpike in his automobile, nearly ran down a lurching, indifferent figure in the middle of the road. His machine just grazed Elston and pushed him aside.

"Narrow escape that, Bob," observed Pearce, in a warning, but friendly tone. "I should think you'd about cut this carousing business out."

"Would," stammered Elston, "but I'm afraid of the results," and he shuddered.

Pearce eyed him speculatively. He knew Elston as an irresponsible village figure, he felt sorry for him and wondered mentally if it would do any good to try and remodel him.

"See here, Elston," he said, "you've got too much material in you to throw it to the winds this way. Why don't you brace up?" and he tried a lot of coaxing arguments on his subject, but Elston was impervious to them all. He was at that stage where the stimulants lay dead in him, afraid of the "horror," and he felt behind with a disconsolate face.

"Come to me if I can ever help you—straighten up, though, mind you," hailed Pearce in parting, and waved his hand in a friendly, encouraging way, not noting that the movement disarranged something from his outside coat pocket, which fell into the road over the side of the machine.

Elston, coming along, saw it, picked it up. It was a pocketbook and it was filled with bank notes. For a moment the bleared eyes glowed with covetousness. Then Elston thrust it out of sight inside his coat, muttering:

"No, I won't be a thief, if I am a wreck. Pearce spoke right to me. I'll act the man," and half an hour later he reached the office of the young lawyer and returned the pocketbook.

"Whew," whistled Pearce, for the first moment aware of his loss. "There's twelve hundred dollars mortgage money paid me by a farmer. I say—"

He was petrified at the simple honesty of this lost soul. He pulled Elston into his private office.

"Old fellow," he said gratefully, "you've got to let me repay this big act of yours. The woman who keeps my office in order has a neat little home. I'm going to get you a room there. You'll have the best of care. Rest for a week and let me put you on your feet."

"No use, I'm afraid," returned Elston dejectedly. "I can't bear to be shut up. I'm afraid of the effect, and want to be where I can get a brace if I begin to see things."

For a long time Pearce pleaded with the poor unfortunate. At length Elston said:

"I'll try it, on one condition."

"And what is that?"

"You trust me."

"I guess I will, after your bringing back that lost pocketbook."

"I want you to buy me a certain remedy. I want to keep it by my side. On my honor, I will not touch it unless I feel trouble coming on. It will help me out to know I've got it. If I reach the limit of endurance."

"Done!" cried Pearce, "and I know you'll conquer."

Elston did. At the end of a week, once more clothed again in his right mind, he took a walk with Pearce. As they reached a quiet spot he took out the bottle. Its contents were intact. He gave it a fling against a rock and it shattered into a thousand pieces.

"That's the end of this business for me," he said, quietly but determinedly.

Now a queer thing came about. Pearce got to questioning Elston about his past. He found that his only living relative was a sister, a milliner in a town fifty miles distant. Elston had kept away from her on account of his habit. Pearce suggested that he go and see the sister.

"I've got an uncle living in Marden," he explained. "I'll get you work there. You will be happier and safer near your sister."

The first moment Pearce set his eyes on Dorothy Elston, the pretty milliner, with her sweet, winning ways, he fell in love with her. He got his old uncle in Marden to employ Elston. The uncle was an eccentric recluse, something of a scientist and had a vast collection of curios and was a good deal of a naturalist.

Two months went by. Pearce made a good many visits to Marden. He got on famously with Dorothy Elston, and her brother was keeping away from his enemy. His employer had sent him away from town on a mission of importance one evening, and Pearce stayed with his uncle that night, leaving early in the morning before his uncle was awake.

Serious news reached him in his own town before nightfall. His uncle had been robbed of a large amount of jewelry. The fact of Pearce being at the house and leaving as he did, led to gossip, and then suspicion. Elston could prove that he was absent when the old man, now turned sour and suspicious, had been robbed. The latter did not prosecute, but he ignored his nephew and former heir after that.

Elston returned to Marden greatly perturbed over the charge that affected the man who had been his best friend. All one day he prowled about the old house, trying to figure out how and why his employer was robbed.

At last Elston rested suspicion upon a stranger who had come to the town the day before the robbery, and had been found acting suspiciously on the public streets the ensuing evening. The man was serving a thirty days sentence for the misdemeanor.

One day another stranger met Elston and scraped up an acquaintance with him. He informed Elston that the man in jail was a friend of his.

Elston assented. The mission would enable him to get closer to the prisoner. On the way to the jail, however, he happened to notice the cigar. It felt soft in the center. He suspected something and investigated. It was to discover a note packed into small compass, and reading:

"I can't hang around here for fear of exciting suspicion. Your share of the loot is hidden in the loft of the old shed back of the house we robbed."

Immediately Elston set the officers on the trail of the man who had given him the money and cigar. He was captured, confessed, and Pearce was restored to the good graces of his uncle.

Donald Pearce blessed the hour he had reclaimed from the dregs the reformed derelict who saved his good name, and led to his gaining the dearest, sweetest wife in the world.

Modern Jonah Really Swallowed by Whale?

A London minister narrates the following instance of a modern Jonah. In February, 1891, the whaling ship, Star of the East, was in the vicinity of the Falkland Islands when it encountered a large sperm whale. After the attack one of the seamen, named James Bartley, could not be found. The whale had been killed, and the sailors worked all day and part of the night removing the blubber. Next morning they attached some tackle to the stomach, which was hoisted on to the deck. The sailors were startled by something in it which gave spasmodic signs of life, and presently discovered James Bartley, doubled up and unconscious. He was revived, but remained for two weeks a raving lunatic. At the end of the third week he recovered.

"While he was in the whale's body his flesh was bleached by gastric juice to a deadly whiteness and became like parchment. He remembered the sensation of being thrown out of the boat into the sea, and of slipping along a smooth passage that seemed to move and carry him forward. His hands touched yielding, slimy substance that shrank from his touch. The heat was terrific, but he could breathe. It seemed to open the pores of his skin and draw out his vitality. He became weak and sick. The next he remembered was being in the captain's cabin."

"His skin never recovered its natural color, but his health was not permanently affected."

Teaching the Mosquito.

That it is possible to accomplish not only more than one expects, but much more than one desires, is shown by the case of a Washington scientist who was detailed one year to proceed to a state famous for its mosquitoes in order to study the ways of that pestiferous insect.

Upon his return he was met on the street one day by a conscientious friend, who said:

"Jones, I understand that you went to Jersey to study the mosquito."

"So I heard," said Jones, "but it seems to me that instead of studying entomology I've engaged in teaching anthropology most of the time!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Famed Indian Chief Once Preached a Sermon in a Baptist Church

OUR hearts hurt when we do wrong and therefore we get our punishment in this life," was the gospel preached by White Eagle, famed tribal chief and medicine man of the Ponca Indians. White Eagle said the Indians do not believe in Hell; that people have their Hell on earth. His idea of evolution was "Put everything before Indian and all Indians come and divide, put something before monkey, he grab it all; white man same way; white man must come from monkey." This religious philosophy was expressed by Chief White Eagle at a Baptist Church meeting in Birmingham, Alabama.

While in Birmingham, White Eagle was asked to express his religious views by the white minister and accepted the invitation. As was becoming to an Indian tribal chief and medicine man, White Eagle spoke slowly and deliberately, using his right arm frequently for gestures. He stopped occasionally to permit his interpreter to translate his words into English. This singular sermon was delivered in 1883.

White Eagle was chief of the Poncas while they lived in Nebraska, advocated many of the advancements made by the Poncas, including their present allotment of land near Ponca City, Oklahoma. The Poncas moved to their present reservation just south of Ponca City while White Eagle was chief. White Eagle paid $50,000 to the Cherokees for the land on which the Poncas are now living.

During the life of White Eagle, he led the Poncas in their last war with the Sioux. He was the last war chief of his tribe. This was just prior to the tribe being moved to Oklahoma in 1877. White Eagle resigned his office in 1903 in favor of his eldest son, Horse Chief Eagle, and died in 1914 at the venerable age of 73 years.

It is after this famous Ponca chief that the White Eagle Oil and Refining Company gets its distinctive name.

South America from a new angle

THROUGH custom one thinks of North America as being in the upper half of the world and of South America as being "down below."

Yet the globe may just as logically be considered as having the south pole at the top.

Look at the "other America" from this new angle.

South America is one of the most interesting areas on the globe—its resources barely touched, its possibilities immeasurable.

THE UNITED PRESS was the first American news service to enter Latin America and now serves 95% of the representative South American daily newspapers. Its South American Bureaus receive news daily in five languages—Italian, French, Spanish, English and Portuguese.

The establishment of UNITED PRESS facilities in the southern continent is merely one phase of the enterprise of this great news-gathering organization which contacts every news-source in the habitable world. UNITED PRESS dispatches are printed in more than 1,100 newspapers, in 12 languages, in 36 nations.

THE UNIVERSITY'S PLEA FOR FUNDS

THE DISPATCH is pleased to print this statement from President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota, relative to funds required to properly conduct that institution.

"In its statement of needs for the coming biennium, the University is not 'demanding' anything," says President Coffman, "but it is telling the people of Minnesota what they should do for higher education if it is to be kept on the upgrade. And only by keeping it on the upgrade can it be prevented from heading towards inefficiency and stagnation.

"When the University points out the sum it needs to operate on a basis of reasonable efficiency," says the statement, "it is merely putting into words the same situation that everyone recognizes without challenge when it arises in his own business. When expanding patronage makes it necessary to add to the number of his employees or to pay a little more so that those already employed may be retained, the manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer is not likely to quibble. The farmer, also, adjusts his outgo to the increasing demands of his establishment if it is run on a business basis.

"The University administration is not in the business of nagging and heckling the Minnesota public so that it may get more funds, either at the expense of the taxpayers or of other public institutions. We consider that it is our duty as public servants to operate the University of Minnesota effectively and to let the public know what money is needed to accomplish such a purpose.

"The University makes no effort to attract to it increasing numbers of students. The new students come in response to the recognized value of the training they may obtain here. They are Minnesotans seeking the services of a Minnesota institution, established and maintained by the people of Minnesota, probably there is not a single person in the state who would not suffer actual hardships rather than be deprived of the privileges of free government and widespread popular education.

"Every Minnesotan knows in his heart that the state's educational system is an inalienable and superlatively important part of the order of things, yet indirect thinking has led many to misjudging what have come to be called the 'University demands'."

THE "POLITICAL RELIGION" OF AMERICA

THE Staples World calls attention to the fact that on January 27, 1837, just 90 years ago, Abraham Lincoln addressed the Young Men's Lyceum, at Springfield, Ill., during which he outlined the "political religion" of America in the following language:

"Let every American, lover of liberty, well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor—let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty.

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling-books and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice, and in short, let it become the political religion of the nation, and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all our sexes and tongues and colors and conditions, sacrifice unceasingly upon its altar."

A WINTER DRIVING HAZARD

MOTORISTS driving cars off regular cement highways must exercise caution in negotiating the plowed roads. Snowplows, of course, leave smoothed surfaces and the motorist cannot tell whether his car, when turning out for another, will rest on hard surface or penetrate a ditch which the plowed snow has tightly covered.

Several reports have reached the Brainerd Dispatch of cars overturning in snow covered angles. A case in point is that of L. W. Sherlund who turned out for an approaching car. His automobile broke through the snow covering, overturned in the ditch and then whirled about and righted itself, the accident happening about two miles from New York Mills.

THE United States has a problem in the shape of a million people who entered the country illegally, who lack certificates of admission, who cannot become citizens under existing laws. Many have become established here, have built nice homes and engaged in prosperous business ventures. They have lost the citizenship of their own country, have acquired no citizenship in the United States and thus are people without a country.

ACCORDING to "Minnesota Municipalities," February issue, in opening a new pump and purifying station for the Metropolitan Water Board, London, England, the Minister of Health mentioned that the board supplied water to a population greater than that of the whole of Canada, and that its mains, if stretched end to end, would reach to New York and back.

THE Hibbing council has passed a resolution providing that any person given employment by the village council shall have resided in the village at least two years and also shall be an American citizen.

SOME one lost a lot of harmony on the Gull lake road the other day, and a farmer picked up the bundle of orchestral music and brought it to the Brainerd Dispatch office for any possible claimant.

QUITE an interesting address was given at the Ladies Night meeting of the Staples Rotary club, Mrs. Annah Atwood taking as her topic, "My Husband Before and After Joining Rotary."

THE Wadena city council plans building three skating rinks this winter so that the children may have skating facilities.

THE DERELICT HE RECLAIMED

By HECTOR BLAKE

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman.)

"A BRAND from the burning!" proclaimed wheezy, parsimonious Daniel Britt, "Two put Bob Elston on his feet. I hope he keeps his good resolutions which L-ha, hum—have tried to instill."

Old Britt indicated a figure going down the street. It was Bob Elston whom everybody in town knew for a ne'er-do-well, but pitied him and liked him.

As to Daniel Britt, the knowing ones smiled and shrugged their shoulders. It was true that he had given young Elston a suit of old clothes, but it was also current knowledge that Elston in some unaccountable spirit of sobriety had delved and labored in the Britt garden for a full ten days, receiving half pay.

Britt made great capital of his "charity" all that day. The next, however, his feathers dropped. More unsteady and ragged than ever, Bob Elston appeared on the streets of the village. He had sold his clothes and was back in his old attire. He was in a disgraceful condition.

"Did my duty, it's off my mind," commented Britt, and poor Bob as an acknowledged institution of the lower type of the time proceeded to prolong his spree.

It was about a week after that when Donald Pearce, a rising young lawyer of the town, coming down the turnpike in his automobile, nearly ran down a lurching, indifferent figure in the middle of the road. His machine just grazed Elston and pushed him aside.

"Narrow escape that, Bob," observed Pearce, in a warning, but friendly tone. "I should think you'd about out this carousing business out."

"Would," stammered Elston, "but I'm afraid of the results," and he shuddered.

Pearce eyed him speculatively. He knew Elston as an irresponsible village figure, he felt sorry for him and wondered mentally if it would do any good to try and remodel him.

"See here, Elston," he said, "you've got too much material in you to throw it to the winds this way. Why don't you brace up?" and he tried a lot of coaxing arguments on his subject, but Elston was impervious to them all. He was at that stage where the stimulants lay dead in him, afraid of the "horror," and he felt behind with a disconsolate face.

"Come to me if I can ever help you—straighten up, though, mind you," hailed Pearce in parting, and waved his hand in a friendly, encouraging way, not noting that the movement disarranged something from his outside coat pocket, which fell into the road over the side of the machine.

Elston, coming along, saw it, picked it up. It was a pocketbook and it was filled with bank notes. For a moment the bleared eyes glowed with covetousness. Then Elston thrust it out of sight inside his coat, muttering:

"No, I won't be a thief, if I am a wreck. Pearce spoke right to me. I'll act the man," and half an hour later he reached the office of the young lawyer and returned the pocketbook.

"Where," whistled Pearce, for the first moment aware of his loss, "there's twelve hundred dollars mortgage money paid me by a farmer. I say—"

He was petrified at the simple honesty of this lost soul. He pulled Elston into his private office.

"Old fellow," he said gratefully, "you've got to let me repay this big act of yours. The woman who keeps my office in order has a neat little home. I'm going to get you a room there. You'll have the best of care. Rest for a week and let me put you on your feet."

"No use, I'm afraid," returned Elston dejectedly. "I can't bear to be shut up. I'm afraid of the effect, and want to be where I can get a brace if I begin to see things."

For a long time Pearce pleaded with the poor unfortunate. At length Elston said:

"I'll try it, on one condition."

"And what is that?"

"You trust me."

"I guess I will, after your bringing back that lost pocketbook!"

"I want you to buy me a certain remedy. I want to keep it by my side. On my honor, I will not touch it unless I feel trouble coming on. It will help me out to know I've got it, if I reach the limit of endurance."

"Done!" cried Pearce, "and I know you'll conquer."

Elston did. At the end of a week, once more clothed again in his right mind, he took a walk with Pearce. As they reached a quiet spot he took out the bottle. Its contents were intact. He gave it a fling against a rock and it shattered into a thousand pieces.

"That's the end of this business for me," he said, quietly but determinedly.

Now a queer thing came about. Pearce got to questioning Elston about his past. He found that his only living relative was a sister, a milliner in a town fifty miles distant. Elston had kept away from her on account of his habit. Pearce suggested that he go and see the sister.

"I've got an uncle living in Maroon," he explained. "I'll get you work there. You will be happier and safer near your sister."

The first moment Pearce set his eyes on Dorothy Elston, the pretty milliner, with her sweet, winning ways, he fell in love with her. He got his old uncle in Marden to employ Elston. The uncle was an eccentric recluse, something of a scientist and had a vast collection of curios and was a good deal of a naturalist.

Two months went by. Pearce made a good many visits to Marden. He got on famously with Dorothy Elston, and her brother was keeping away from his enemy. His employer had sent him away from town on a mission of importance one evening, and Pearce stayed with his uncle that night, leaving early in the morning before his uncle was awake.

Serious news reached him in his own town before nightfall. His uncle had been robbed of a large amount of jewelry. The fact of Pearce being at the house and leaving as he did, led to gossip, and then suspicion. Elston could prove that he was absent when the old man, now turned sour and suspicious, had been robbed. The latter did not prosecute, but he ignored his nephew and former heir after that.

Elston returned to Marden greatly perturbed over the charge that affected the man who had been his best friend. All one day he prowled about the old house, trying to figure out how and why his employer was robbed.

At last Elston rested suspicion upon a stranger who had come to the town the day before the robbery, and had been found acting suspiciously on the public streets the ensuing evening. The man was serving a thirty days sentence for the misdemeanor.

One day another stranger met Elston and scraped up an acquaintance with him. He informed Elston that the man in jail was a friend of his.

Elston assented. The mission would enable him to get closer to the prisoner. On the way to the jail, however, he happened to notice the cigar. It felt soft in the center. He suspected something and investigated. It was to discover a note packed into small compass, and reading:

"I can't hang around here for fear of exciting suspicion. Your share of the loot is hidden in the left of the old shed back of the house we robbed."

Immediately Elston set the officers on the trail of the man who had given him the money and cigar. He was captured, confessed, and Pearce was restored to the good graces of his uncle.

Donald Pearce blessed the hour he had reclaimed from the dregs the reformed derelict who saved his good name, and led to his gaining the dearest, sweetest wife in the world.

Modern Jonah Really Swallowed by Whale?

A London minister narrates the following instance of a modern Jonah. In February, 1891, the whaling ship, Star of the East, was in the vicinity of the Falkland Islands when it encountered a large sperm whale. After the attack one of the seamen, named James Bartley, could not be found. The whale had been killed, and the sailors worked all day and part of the night removing the blubber. Next morning they attached some tackle to the stomach, which was hoisted on to the deck. The sailors were startled by something in it which gave spasmodic signs of life, and presently discovered James Bartley, doubled up and unconscious. He was revived, but remained for two weeks a raving lunatic. At the end of the third week he recovered.

"While he was in the whale's body his flesh was bleached by gastric juice to a deadly whiteness and became like parchment. He remembered the sensation of being thrown out of the boat into the sea, and of slipping along a smooth passage that seemed to move and carry him forward. His hands touched yielding, slimy substance that shrank from his touch. The heat was terrific, but he could breathe. It seemed to open the pores of his skin and draw out his vitality. He became weak and sick. The next he remembered was being in the captain's cabin.

"His skin never recovered its natural color, but his health was not permanently affected."

Teaching the Mosquito.

That it is possible to accomplish not only more than one expects, but much more than one desires, is shown by the case of a Washington scientist, who was detailed one year to proceed to a state famous for its mosquitoes in order to study the ways of that pestiferous insect.

Upon his return he was met on the street one day by a non-scientific friend, who said:

"Jones, I understand that you went to Jersey to study the mosquito."

"So I heard," said Jones, "but it seems to me that instead of studying entomology I've engaged in teaching anthropology most of the time!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

BUSINESS CARES NOW WEIGH ON HORNSBY

BASEBALL SENDS HIM FROM ST. LOUIS TO NEW YORK

HORNSBY ALSO DEFENDANT IN TWO DAMAGE SUITS FILED

STAR MUST ALSO DISPOSE OF 1,176 SHARES OF CARDINAL STOCK

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (Copyright, 1927, by United Press) St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 14.—The harassed look of a married man about to move his household from one city to another is the look these days on the face of Rogers Hornsby whose baseball is chasing from St. Louis to New York.

Mussolini with all his duties is not so busy a man as the former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals who, this year becomes a New York Giant. He was interviewed by the United Press after a day of consultations with lawyers, realtors, bankers, movers and miscellaneous tradesmen.

"Baseball? Yes, of course, baseball. I believe the Giants will win the 1927 pennant," said Hornsby absently, his eyes resting on a picture over the mantle and his mind weighing the relative safety of excelsior and crinkled newspapers for packing.

"I came to St. Louis in 1915," Hornsby ruminated, warming up to the subject. "I was a rookie fresh from Dennison, Texas. Twelve years I went on doing my best for the Cardinals and finally last year we put over a championship. Then Sam Breadon traded me to New York."

"I don't know yet why he did it. It didn't seem right, especially since I was a stockholder in the club. But Breadon owns controlling interest and I have no kick against the system. Owners must be able to do what they want with players."

"But I'm glad I'm going to New York. I hope to finish my baseball career with the Giants and under John McGraw whom I consider the best man in the game. I'm going to give everything I have to the Giants and I'm confident we'll win a championship this year."

Then the conversation reverted back to moving. Hornsby plans to leave for the Giants' training camp this week and to settle in the remaining three days some of the personal difficulties attendant upon his move from St. Louis.

Besides two damage suits in which he is defendant, one brought by a Kentucky sportsman on personal notes he claims to hold and one by an attorney for fees, Hornsby must still dispose of his 1,176 shares of Cardinal stock.

"Breadon should at least take these off my hands," he said. "At $105 a share, I am asking a fair price. My lawyer offered to buy Breadon's stock at the same price and was refused."

"But that will be taken care of somehow. And all this," he said, indicating with a sweep of his hand the home and property he owns in St. Louis, "will be disposed of in time by my representatives."

The interview here was interrupted by appearance of the Hornsby heir, a stocky 20-months old youngster, who peered around the corner to wave at his dad.

"Big for his age, isn't he?" remarked Hornsby with paternal pride. "Maybe he'll be a baseball player."

"I'd be glad to have him go into the game. I consider it a good career. The recent scandals have done it no harm. Charges against Cobb and Speaker were trumped up and the fans know it."

"I'm anxious to get back to work. I found time today to buy some sweat shirts and stuff I'll need to start training. Condition? I'm in top notch condition and expect as good a year as I've ever had."

Hornsby's appearance bore out the last remark. Massive, but tall enough to be well proportioned, he looks the athlete despite the winter's inactivity. His waistline will stand slight reduction but a few weeks of training should take care of that.

"Just say I expect to see the Giants win," he concluded. "I can talk better when there is a chance to back it up on the diamond."

New York, Feb. 14.—Rogers Hornsby, Giants second baseman and a member of the St. Louis board of directors, will be permitted to train at the New York camp and to play in the spring exhibition games even if he does not dispose of his Cardinal stock in the meantime, under a ruling by John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

5,000 PERSONS SEE ANDERS HAUGEN IN SKI JUMP

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(UP)—With all the excitement and color that surrounds a bull fight, 5,000 persons lined Charlson hill here Sunday and watched Anders Haugen of Minneapolis jump to victory in the Aurora Ski club interstate tournament.

Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota were represented in the jump, one of the ranking events of the country.

Haugen, five times national champion, representing the Calhoun Beach club, won the class A event with a leap of 144 feet, while Casper Olmen, Grand Beach, Mich., took second honors.

Anders' contribution to the afternoon thrills was exceeded, however, by Ted Peterson, south St. Paul youth of 17 who broke the slide record by a leap of 145 feet and then almost broke his neck in a fall which robbed him of unquestioned honors.

A nasty wind increased the hazards of landings on the icy hillside and before the last runner had shot through the air, two riders were carried to hospitals.

Alt Mathiesen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, fairly leaped his way into a hospital cot with a fractured pelvic bone and Arthur Olson, Minneapolis broke an arm in a bad fall. Lamson Batson, Westby, Wis., was cut and bruised about the head and body at the end of a leap but was back on the hill again after first aid treatment.

Selish Sinners

Men who walk on tiptoe all through life, holding up their skirts for fear they shall touch their fellows—who are delicate and refined in feeling, and who ring all the bells of taste high up in their own belfry where no one else can hear them, these dainty fools are the greatest sinners of all, for they use their higher faculties to serve the devil with.—Henry Ward Beecher.

PINE RIVER DOWNS B. H. S. GIRLS' TEAM

SECOND TEAM TASTED ITS FIRST DEFEAT FRIDAY AT PINE RIVER

SCORE 16 TO 8; FLYING QUEENS LOSE TO MENAGHA, 21 TO 6

The B. H. S. girls' second team tasted its first defeat Friday night when the Pine River five chalked up a 16-8 victory. The game was quite interesting. Pine River had an excellent team and the spectacular shooting of Dorothy Kater in the last half salted away the victory for her team mates.

The line-ups:

Brainerd—Fern Lewis, Hilda Dybvick, Dorothy Klevon, Charlotte Peters, Margaret Jackson, Helga Loya. Subs—Alzant for Jackson, Hegstad for Peters.

Pine River—Anita Fields, Dorothy Kater, Evelyn Linder, Sigurd Peterson, Leta Kater, Ruth Sherwood. Subs—Marie James for Sherwood.

Scoring:

Field goals—Fern Lewis 1, Loya 1, Alzant 1, Kater 4, Linder 2.

Free throws made—Linder 2, Kater 1, Klevon 1, Alzant 1.

Flying Queens—Menagha All Stars

The Brainerd girls' independent basketball team journeyed to Menagha Friday night, and were defeated to the tune of 21 to 16.

Although the trip was a hard one, the Brainerd girls were in the pink of condition and played a wonderful game all the way through the contest. The Menagha girls, with a two years' undefeated record behind them, displayed defense work that was impassable to the onrushing forwards of the Flying Queens. Miss Jarvinen, left guard on the Menagha six, was a marvel to watch, breaking up play after play, when the Brainerd sextet brought the ball into their territory.

Needless to say, Edna Turner played one of the fastest games ever displayed by a basketball player. She scored basket after basket, only to be counted out when a foul was called, just as she was ringing them. Much comment was floating about that night about the speedy forward and praises were many for the spectacular brand of basketball she put forth. Her running mate, Fogelstrom, was also an important factor to be considered in the game, fighting like a demon all the way through to the last whistle. Good teamwork ran rampant throughout the battle and excellent defense work was featured by both teams.

After the game, Menagha entertained the Flying Queens with a big party staged at one of the private homes, the faculty and students mingling with the guests. Music and dancing was indulged in, after which the Brainerd girls departed in the wee hours, declaring it was one of the most pleasant and hilarious times they had ever had.

The line-ups:

Menagha—Pederson, rf; Niemala, lf; Powser, c; Kressin, rc; Etter, rg; Jarvinen, lg.

Brainerd—Turner, rf; Fogelstrom, lf; Trask, c; Smith, rc; Hollingsworth, rg; Reuter, lg.

Field goals—Turner 5, Fogelstrom 2, Powser 7, Niemala 2.

Free throws—Fogelstrom 1, Trask 1, Pederson 1, Powser 2.

TAYLOR TO MEET EDDIE SHEA

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, will meet Eddie Shea, west side Italian, here February 24, in a boxing match that promoters have been endeavoring to book for at least two years.

Shea was selected to fill the opening left when Tony Conzoneri was forced to cancel an engagement with Taylor, because of injuries.

EFFECT OF SCANDALS ON THE PLAYERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 14.—It remains for the conclusive test of the turnstiles to show the effect of all the recent baseball scandals on the public. Perhaps the business end of the game will suffer but the playing end certainly will not. The disclosures made during the investigations may have a bad effect on the fans but they surely ought to have beneficial results on the players.

There probably will be a new code of ethics in which there will be no gambling on baseball games among the players, no intimate fraternizing on the field or off, no conferences under the grandstand and no big hearted rewards for rival players.

While there was nothing brought out in the investigation of the charges made against Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker and those made by Swede Risberg against the Chicago and Detroit teams to prove crooked playing, it was shown that there was a general feeling among the players that there was nothing wrong in collecting a pot for pitchers and players as a reward for beating rival teams.

Perhaps there is nothing wrong in the practice. It is admitted that it is not criminal but it has been proved a dangerous practice. The act of the Chicago White Sox in giving a purse to Detroit pitchers for beating the Boston Red Sox cost the American league $20,000 for investigation expenses and caused the players involved a lot of embarrassment and worry while they were under suspicion.

If the Chicago players hadn't contributed to the bonus fund for the Detroit pitchers there could have been no justification for listening to Risberg's charges.

John McGraw and many old timers have been deploring the softening of spirit that has been apparent in the new school of ball players. McGraw doesn't like to see the players of opposing clubs shaking hands on the field and fraternizing back of the batting cage. They hearken back to the old days when a player on a rival club was an enemy and was treated as such.

They realize, of course, that times and conditions have changed. Intimate associations and fast friendships are established between players on the same club and when they are separated they hardly can be expected to become bitter enemies.

George Kelly and Frank Frisch roomed together all the time they were with the Giants. Now Frisch will wear the uniform of the St. Louis Cardinals and Kelly will have to look for a new roomie.

No one could expect to see Kelly walk on the field and punch Frisch in the nose the first time they meet as rivals. No one can suspicion conspiracy if Frisch has friendly conversation the first time he gets to first base against the Giants.

McGraw doesn't go that far, of course. He does believe that rivalry shouldn't destroy valuable friendships but he claims there are better places than the playing field to have reunions.

Not many players are known to be gamblers on ball games but those who have bet in the past on their own club or on other clubs against which they were not playing hardly will do it. The experience that Jimmy O'Connell had in being tossed out of baseball convinced the players of the danger of practical joking and the recent Chicago investigations must have proved to them the danger of connecting money with any kind of baseball.

There has been somewhat of a demand for legislation to prevent a baseball player from betting on horse races but that seems to be stretching a point. In some cases too much betting will effect the game of a player. It might get his mind off baseball.

Although it hasn't been observed so much in more recent years there was a time when it was not uncommon for a player to send a message to the press box to learn the name of a winner of a certain race.

If a player has more money than he can afford to lose wagered on a horse race it is logical that he will not have his mind entirely on baseball until the race has been run and even after it is over, if he has lost.

But there seems to be little harm in a player who would wager a few dollars on a horse race.

If the players are to be restrained from gambling on the ponies, the same rule should be applied to the club owners.

NO CONTEST IN YEARS EXCITES MORE ATTENTION

FIGHT IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN ON FRIDAY NIGHT

WINNER TO BE WELL ON WAY TO MATCH WITH TUNNEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 14.—No contest in years, with the exception of the heavyweight championship match between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, which drew the greatest crowd in the history of boxing, has attracted the fancy of the public as has the bout between Jack Delaney, world light heavyweight champion, and Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight. The fight is to be held in Madison Square Garden Friday night and the winner will be well on the way to a match with Tunney next September.

Commissioners in the financial district estimated that more than a million dollars would change hands on the bout and one firm reported that bets of more than $100,000 already had been placed. The current odds hold Delaney the favorite at six to five. Some money has been offered at one to three that Delaney scores a knockout.

For the first time in his career as a promoter, Tex Rickard had to sell his seats by mail. The demand was so heavy that he could not place the tickets on public sale and applicants had to put up their money, take a receipt and run the chances of getting a seat any place in the arena.

Rickard estimated today that at least 10,000 applications could not be honored.

Rickard asked Maloney if he would not take a cut in the number of tickets allotted to him and Maloney said if he didn't get every seat promised he wouldn't fight. "They are all for people in Boston and they're my friends," he said. Delaney also refused to give up a ticket for his Connecticut rooters.

Expert opinion was divided on the merits of the two fighters. If Delaney happened to be twenty pounds heavier he would be almost a unanimous choice but as he is forced to attack his 175 pounds against Maloney's close to 200, the old gag was being quoted that a good little man can't beat a good big man.

Delaney is a regular vogue in the east, the most popular fighter that has appeared around New York in a decade and for this reason it may be that the fans are following sentiment instead of judgment. There were thousands who thought that Dempsey was invincible and yet he was ignominiously beaten by the first real good man he met.

The boxing commission was being censured severely for enforcing in this case the rule that a champion fighting out of his class must make the weight of his class.

It seems rank injustice to force Delaney to hold himself to 175 pounds but Delaney is not complaining. In fact, he knew when he took the match that he couldn't weigh more than 175 pounds.

COLD SPRINGS TEAM LIVES UP EXPECTATIONS IN WINNING VICTORY

ENGBRETSON AGAIN IN SCORING ROLE WITH SIX GOALS AND TWO FREE THROWS

The Rainbows were handed a narrow defeat Saturday night at the hands of the Cold Springs team to the tune of 26 to 22, the final outcome of the game being in doubt until the final whistle.

Engbretson again proved the scoring hero of the evening, with four teen points to his credit. He made his points on six field goals and two free throws. Nutting, Beresford and Fitzsimmons each contributed one field goal, and Ericsson and Beresford each made good on one free throw.

For Cold Springs, Mainz and A. Rausch stood out as superior players. Mainz made four field goals and Rausch three, and both men were smooth working players who fitted in well with the team play of their mates. Milne also did some good floor work, and dropped in two field goals.

The second quarter of the game was a free scoring period, each team sinking fourteen points in that period. The other three stanzas were free of much excitement, especially the last, when but one point was made by the two sides, a free throw by Joe Rausch of Cold Springs.

In the preliminary game the Flying Aces Juniors handed the Little Tigers their third successive defeat, greatly due to the height and reach of their center, Schuetz. Without him the game would have been more on a par. The score was 27 to 18. Halvorson with five, and Schuetz with four field goals, were the chief point getters for the Aces, while Volleat, with four field goals, Marshall with three field goals and two free throws, and Mayo with one goal, garnered the counters for the Tigers. Other scorers for the Aces were Heikinen, with two field goals and Perlman and Smith with one each, Smith also getting one free throw.

CATALINA CHANNEL STILL BECKONING TO SWIMMERS

San Pedro, Calif., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Catalina channel is still calling swimmers who want to brave its 23 miles of shark infested waters in search of fame and fortune.

Two more aspirants, who failed in attempts to cross yesterday, today declared they would try again at a later date.

Saga Kolb, young Norwegian girl, after going approximately six miles, was forced to give up when she was no longer able to battle the high seas brought on by a heavy sou'easter.

"Happy" Jack Wolneic, Venice, Calif., abandoned his second attempt to cross the treacherous stretch of water when adverse currents carried him far off his course.

Capital Punishment Not Written in Statute Books of Minnesota

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Capital punishment will not be written into the books of Minnesota this year, was the edict of the senate committee on crime prevention today when it announced that the bill would not be drawn up by the committee.

Members of the committee declared that they would not jeopardize the remainder of the crime prevention program by submitting a measure that has no chance of passage.

The whipping post bill is expected to follow the hanging bill in pigeon holes due to the belief that it would endanger the prevention program. It was indicated that if the bill was favorably reported out it would be put a skeleton of the present drastic measure.

BUSINESS CARES NOW WEIGH ON HORNSBY

BASEBALL SENDS HIM FROM ST. LOUIS TO NEW YORK

HORNSBY ALSO DEFENDANT IN TWO DAMAGE SUITS FILED

STAR MUST ALSO DISPOSE OF 1,176 SHARES OF CARDINAL STOCK

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (Copyright, 1927, by United Press) St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 14.—The harassed look of a married man about to move his household from one city to another is the look these days on the face of Rogers Hornsby whose baseball is chasing from St. Louis to New York.

Mussolini with all his duties is not so busy a man as the former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals who this year becomes a New York Giant. He was interviewed by the United Press after a day of consultations with lawyers, realtors, bankers, movers and miscellaneous tradesmen.

"Baseball? Yes, of course, baseball. I believe the Giants will win the 1927 pennant," said Hornsby absently, his eyes resting on a picture over the mantle and his mind weighing the relative safety of excelsior and crinkled newspapers for packing.

"I came to St. Louis in 1915," Hornsby ruminates, warming up to the subject. "I was a rookie fresh from Dennison, Texas. Twelve years I went on doing my best for the Cardinals and finally last year we put over a championship. Then Sam Breadon traded me to New York."

"I don't know yet why he did it. It didn't seem right, especially since I was a stockholder in the club. But Breadon owns controlling interest and I have no kick against the system. Owners must be able to do what they want with players."

"But I'm glad I'm going to New York. I hope to finish my baseball career with the Giants and under John McGraw whom I consider the best man in the game. I'm going to give everything I have to the Giants and I'm confident we'll win a championship this year."

Then the conversation reverted back to moving. Hornsby plans to leave for the Giants' training camp this week and to settle in the remaining three days some of the personal difficulties attendant upon his move from St. Louis.

Besides two damage suits in which he is defendant, one brought by a Kentucky sportsman on personal notes he claims to hold and one by an attorney for fees, Hornsby must still dispose of his 1,176 shares of Cardinal stock.

"Breadon should at least take these off my hands," he said. "At $105 a share, I am asking a fair price. My lawyer offered to buy Breadon's stock at the same price and was refused."

"But that will be taken care of somehow. And all this," he said, indicating with a sweep of his hand the home and property he owns in St. Louis, "will be disposed of in time by my representatives."

The interview here was interrupted by appearance of the Hornsby heir, a stocky 20-months old youngster, who peered around the corner to wave at his dad.

"Big for his age, isn't he?" remarked Hornsby with paternal pride. "Maybe he'll be a baseball player."

"I'd be glad to have him go into the game. I consider it a good career. The recent scandals have done it no harm. Charges against Cobb and Speaker were trumped up and the fans know it."

"I'm anxious to get back to work. I found time today to buy some sweat shirts and stuff I'll need to start training. Condition? I'm in top notch condition and expect as good a year as I've ever had."

Hornsby's appearance bore out the last remark. Massive, but tall enough to be well proportioned, he looks the athlete despite the winter's inactivity. His waistline will stand slight reduction but a few weeks of training should take care of that.

"Just say I expect to see the Giants win," he concluded. "I can talk better when there is a chance to back it up on the diamond."

New York, Feb. 14.—Rogers Hornsby, Giants second baseman and a member of the St. Louis board of directors, will be permitted to train at the New York camp and to play in the spring exhibition games even if he does not dispose of his Cardinal stock in the meantime, under a ruling by John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

5,000 PERSONS SEE ANDERS HAUGEN IN SKI JUMP

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(UP)—With all the excitement and color that surrounds a bull fight, 5,000 persons lined Charlson hill here Sunday and watched Anders Haugen of Minneapolis jump to victory in the Aurora Ski club interstate tournament.

Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota were represented in the jump, one of the ranking events of the country.

Haugen, five times national champion, representing the Calhoun Beach club, won the class A event with a leap of 144 feet, while Casper Ofmen, Grand Beach, Mich., took second honors.

Anders' contribution to the afternoon thrills was exceeded, however, by Ted Peterson, south St. Paul youth of 17 who broke the slide record by a leap of 145 feet and then almost broke his neck in a fall which robbed him of unquestioned honors.

A nasty wind increased the hazards of landings on the icy hillside and before the last runner had shot through the air, two riders were carried to hospitals.

All Mathiesen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, fairly leaped his way into a hospital cot with a fractured pelvic bone and Arthur Olson, Minneapolis broke an arm in a bad fall. Lamion Batson, Westby, Wis., was cut and bruised about the head and body at the end of a leap but was back on the hill again after first aid treatment.

PINE RIVER DOWNS B. H. S. GIRLS' TEAM

SECOND TEAM TASTED ITS FIRST DEFEAT FRIDAY AT PINE RIVER

SCORE 16 TO 8; FLYING QUEENS LOSE TO MENAGHA, 21 TO 6

The B. H. S. girls' second team tasted its first defeat Friday night when the Pine River five chalked up a 16-8 victory. The game was quite interesting. Pine River had an excellent team and the spectacular shooting of Dorothy Kater in the last half salted away the victory for her team mates.

The line-ups:
Brainerd—Fern Lewis, Hilda Dybvick, Dorothy Klevon, Charlotte Peters, Margaret Jackson, Helga Loya, Sub—Alzant for Jackson, Hegstad for Peters.

Pine River—Anita Fields, Dorothy Kater, Evelyn Linder, Sigurd Peterson, Leta Kater, Ruth Sherwood. Sub—Marie James for Sherwood.

Scoring:
Field goals—Fern Lewis 1, Loya 1, Alzant 1, Kater 4, Linder 2.

Flying Queens—Menagha All Stars
The Brainerd girls' independent basketball team journeyed to Menagha Friday night, and were defeated to the tune of 21 to 16.

Although the trip was a hard one, the Brainerd girls were in the pink of condition and played a wonderful game all the way through the contest. The Menagha girls, with a two years' undefeated record behind them, displayed defense work that was impassable to the onrushing forwards of the Flying Queens. Miss Jarvinen, left guard on the Menagha six, was a marvel to watch, breaking up play after play, when the Brainerd sextet brought the ball in to their territory.

In the preliminary game the Flying Aces Juniors handed the Little Tigers their third successive defeat, greatly due to the height and reach of their center, Schuetz. Without him the game would have been more on a par. The score was 27 to 18.

Halvorson with five, and Schuetz with four field goals, were the chief point getters for the Aces, while Wolleat, with four field goals, Marshall with three field goals and two free throws, and Mayo with one goal, garnered the counters for the Tigers. Other scorers for the Aces were Heikinen, with two field goals and Perlman and Smith with one each, Smith also getting one free throw.

CATALINA CHANNEL STILL BECKONING TO SWIMMERS

San Pedro, Calif., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Catalina channel is still calling swimmers who want to brave its 23 miles of shark infested waters in search of fame and fortune.

Two more aspirants, who failed in attempts to cross yesterday, today declared they would try again at a later date.

Saga Kolb, young Norwegian girl, after going approximately six miles, was forced to give up when she was no longer able to battle the high seas brought on by a heavy sou'easter.

"Happy" Jack Wolneic, Venice, Calif., abandoned his second attempt to cross the treacherous stretch of water when adverse currents carried him far off his course.

Capital Punishment Not Written in Statute Books of Minnesota

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Capital punishment will not be written into the books of Minnesota this year, was the edict of the senate committee on crime prevention today when it announced that the bill would not be drawn up by the committee.

Members of the committee declared that they would not jeopardize the remainder of the crime prevention program by submitting a measure that has no chance of passage.

The whipping post bill is expected to follow the hanging bill into pigeon holes due to the belief that it would endanger the prevention program. It was indicated that if the bill was favorably reported out it would be put a skeleton of the present drastic measure.

Canadians Look to Olympic 1928 Games

A complete survey of the western Canadian possibilities for representation on the Canadian Olympic squad for 1928 at Amsterdam is about to be undertaken by Jack McVicar, president of the Canadian Amateur Athletic union, and P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee. Two big track meets will be held next summer, one in Winnipeg and the other in either Calgary or Edmonton. Eastern trials will be held in Montreal.

Twelve Years OF DEPENDABILITY

It was Dodge Brothers distinction, twelve years ago, to create a more dependable car in its price class than previously had been known.

This enviable leadership Dodge Brothers have rigidly maintained.

Wherever difficult conditions try the souls of men and the stamina of motor cars, you will find Dodge Brothers product foremost in favor.

You will find also that six, eight and even ten years of service are not exceptional for the car; that frequently it delivers mileage running well into six figures; and that maintenance cost is remarkably low throughout its long and useful life.

These facts powerfully witness Dodge Brothers success in constantly bettering a product that was exceptional even at the start.

CRAZED WITH GRIEF OVER LOSS OF HIS SON

BROOKLYN PLASTERER TURNS UPON AND KILLS ATTEND-ING PHYSICIAN

LATTER HAD UNSUCCESSFULLY TREATED LAD IN ADVANCED STAGE OF DIPHTHERIA

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Crazed with grief over the death of his six-year-old son, Frank Caruso, Brooklyn plasterer, today confessed the details of his killing of the physician who failed to cure his boy, Joseph.

Arrested last night on a charge of homicide, Caruso told the story of his battle with Dr. Casper S. Pendola, 27, a young doctor who was graduated in 1921.

Caruso called the doctor on Saturday when the boy was in the advanced stages of diphtheria. Dr. Pendola administered an injection of anti-toxin and promised to return Sunday.

Before he arrived, the boy died.

"He killed my boy and I killed him," police quoted Caruso as saying. "I said to the doctor, 'My boy is dead,' and he laughed in my face. 'I choked him until he was black in the face. Then I ran into the kitchen and got a knife and stuck it in his neck.'"

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Main taining that Dr. Casper S. Pendola of Queens, killed his six-year-old son Frank Caruso was arraigned in homicide court today for the fatal stabbing of the doctor who failed to cure his boy.

Dr. Pendola gave little Joseph Caruso an injection for diphtheria when he treated the lad Saturday. A second doctor pronounced the boy dead when the ambulance came to take him to a hospital. The father, crazed with grief, mumbled, "That other doctor killed him."

"Did you think the doctor had killed your child?" the magistrate asked.

"Sure," said Caruso stubbornly. "He jabbed him in the back."

Mrs. Caruso was bewildered as she was taken to the district attorney's office to make a statement regarding the killing.

How It Happened

Williams—Jones says he started in business on a shoestring.

Taylor—Yes, You see the boss broke his shoestring and when he stooped to tie it Jones scooped the money out of the cash register.

A Delicate Hint

Wanda—What's the string around your finger for? To remind yourself of something?

Dora—No; to remind Harold of something.

Means Nothing

"I never thought Mrs. Flubdub was jealous."

"Well?"

"Yet she keeps advertising for a plain cook."

That Grand Manner

"I'll have you know that I belong to London!"

"Oh, really! By the way you spoke I thought London belonged to you!"

FAIR ENOUGH THEN

"Bill plays a pretty fair game of poker don't he, Joe?"

"Yeh! If yuh keep yer eye on him."

A Bad Effect

"Revolving doors I hate,"

Said Ladd;

"You cannot slam 'em

When you're mad."

Magnets Last Long

The life of a permanent magnet, magnetized in any manner whatever, has never been determined. A magnet made of the best quality of steel, properly heat-treated and aged, and used under the best conditions of service, would probably deteriorate only a negligible amount in the lifetime of a single observer.

The Difference

MORGANATIC WIFE OF PRINCE CAROL TO PUBLISH BOOK

Bucharest, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Reports that Mme. Zizi Lambrino, morganatic wife of former Crown Prince Carol, planned to publish her autobiography caused extreme anxiety at the Roumanian court today.

It was understood that Lambrino would call her story "Memoirs of an Unhappy Woman." Repeated efforts to obtain possession of the proof sheets have failed. The report said that the volume would contain facsimiles intimate of Carol's life, and Queen Marie.

Mme. Lambrino was believed to be in France and it was expected that the French government would prevent publication of the book. She recently sued Carol to obtain the use of his name for their son and for funds with which to support the boy. Carol won both actions.

DE PINEDO FLYING DOWN AFRICAN COAST

Rabat, Morocco, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Colonel Francesco De Pinedo was flying down the African coast today en route to Bolam, Portuguese Guinea, whence he would go across the south Atlantic ocean in one flight to Pernambuco, Brazil. His flight eventually would bring him to the United States and Canada by way of New Orleans, Galveston, El Paso, San Francisco, Victoria, B. C., Winnipeg, Chicago, Quebec, New York, and St. John's, N. F.

In compliance with Premier Mussolini's demand that "Italians must travel rapidly," De Pinedo hoped to reach Buenos Aires by the end of his week and to complete the remainder of his flight with a minimum loss of time.

From Buenos Aires, De Pinedo would fly northward to the United States by way of Havana, with intermediate stops, and he would return to Italy, whence he departed Sunday, across the north Atlantic.

PRINCIPAL FACES CHARGES OF 3 GIRL PUPILS

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Grand jury indictments will be asked this week against Avery V. Wolfum, school principal, following accusations made by three girls pupils, it was announced today by Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy.

Wolfum was arrested yesterday and three girl students were called to the police stations to make charges against him. They said he called them to his office at the Ward school and made improper advances toward them.

The school principal denies the charges and claims the charges are results of a conspiracy to have him removed as head of the school.

The Onward March of Aircraft

Manufacturing special gasoline and lubricating oils for airplanes has been the contribution of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to aviation.

The cooperation of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in the development of aviation has been the logical course for an organization which devotes its entire time and resources to serving the people of the Middle West.

The onward march of aircraft is recognized by this Company as an asset of signal importance to business generally.

Industry in general, and all the people whom industry serves must ultimately be benefited by the growth and expansion of aviation.

The benefits to the entire world from the development of transportation on land and sea are appreciated by every thoughtful person.

Swift trains and ocean liners have reduced distances on our earth, bringing about a shrinking of the world for purposes of commerce and communication, and making possible the present state of our civilization.

The use of the air for transportation marks a new era in the history of the world. It is man's most sensational triumph over the elements.

For centuries men dreamed of flying, but the natural law of gravity proved an obstacle unlike anything encountered on land or sea.

Finally science triumphed and the obstacle was overcome. With the first controlled flight of Orville Wright on Dec. 17, 1903, man entered a new element, beginning the conquest of the air.

During the first decade of the 20th century, the pioneering work in aviation was done.

Roughly speaking, the speed of the airplane has been increased at the rate of 60 miles per hour every four years since 1910.

Designers have increased the climbing powers and fuel capacity of their machines. They have improved the ease of control and the rapidity of manoeuvre. Rapid improvement in reliability has been made.

Sensational records of performance have been established—the flight around the world was perhaps the most gripping and appealing to the imagination. Today it is possible to fly around the earth!

During this 20th century distances on our globe are being reduced startlingly by aviation. For all practical purposes the world is growing smaller.

The importance of this shrinking of the world, to industry and to the welfare of mankind generally, is appreciated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

For the success of its own business and in the interest of the thirty million people whom it serves, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gives its support to the development of aviation, believing that as distances are diminished, with the shrinking of the world, understanding and prosperity will be increased.

DOUBLE FUNERAL OF HUSBAND AND WIFE

Erick Anderson Passed Away Saturday; Wife Died Wednesday
DIED FROM PNEUMONIA

Survived by 13 Children; Interment at Evergreen Cemetery

The bodies of Mrs. Sophie Anderson and her husband Erick Anderson will be laid to rest in adjoining graves in Evergreen cemetery tomorrow as the last earthly tribute to two souls of supreme love.

The sad event of the double funeral will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Clara Lutheran church, funeral rites to be officiated by Rev. August Samuelson.

As if the hand of fate had ruled that there be no parting, Erick Anderson, the husband passed away Saturday evening from pneumonia as arrangements were being made for the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Sophie Anderson who passed away from the same ailment on Wednesday evening.

Born and raised in the same locality, that being the Parish of Essee, Finland, and a difference of only 16 days in their ages, the childhood romance of two during school hood days crept into their lives as they matured.

Mrs. Anderson was born on September 9, 1868 while Mr. Anderson was born on September 25, 1869. Their marriage was honored in 1888. There is a sadness in the lives of their 13 children today that no earthly sympathy can fill.

Death claimed Mrs. Sophie Anderson last Wednesday from pneumonia. She had been sick only a few days and her passing was felt with the deepest regret by all who knew her. Only a few evenings previous to her death she had assisted with the preparation of an entertainment put on by the ladies aid of the Bethlehem Lutheran church of which she was a member.

Erick Anderson, 58 years old, was a pipefitter at the N. P. shops here where he has been employed since 1886. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America. His death Saturday evening from pneumonia was sudden.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are survived by 13 children and 8 grandchildren. The children are: Mrs. William Linton, Mrs. Bannikoff, Helena, Mont.; Mrs. C. E. Hornby, August Anderson, Emil Anderson, William, Irene, Esther and Lillian Anderson, Brainerd; Albert Anderson, San Francisco; Mrs. Oehme, Ida and George Anderson, Berkeley, Calif. Mr. Anderson is also survived by two brothers, Gust Anderson, Bay Point, Calif. and Leander Anderson, of Sweden.

Vitality and Hustle

American vitality is a function, mathematically speaking, of the prosperity and the modernity. An insufficiently nourished human being requires a great deal of rest.

Reduced to an Indian diet, Americans would be a good deal less interested than they actually are in business efficiency, uplift and the chariot. They would spend most of their spare time in doze, or in the doze of first cousin, meditation. But they have enough to eat—a great deal more than enough, in fact. They can afford to hustle; indeed, they must hustle or else die of plethora.

Men and women who wash down beefsteaks with glasses of rich, creamy milk need to do something pretty strenuous in order to keep alive at all.—From "Jesting Pilate," by Aldous Huxley.

Time Will Remedy That

They start 'em young out in Hollywood. According to reputable information, Jackie Coogan and his director had a bit of an argument recently while filming the youthful star's latest picture.

"See here, Jackie," began the director, "I've directed bigger stars than you."

Jack interrupted with a scornful look.

"Bigger, yes, but only in size," he retorted.

Complete Success

Young Housewife—Are you sure this cleaner that you are selling will really take out the dirt?

Agent—Will it? Say, truly, yesterday I rubbed some of it on a copy of Scandalous Stories and when I got through I had the Sunday School Gazette!—Life Magazine.

No New Information

Figures compiled by experts in Boston go to show that bachelors are involved in more than half of all the highway accidents. Which, after all, is merely another way of saying that youth must have its fling.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Boundary of Maine

Maine is the only state in the Union which has a common boundary with only one state. New Hampshire cuts Maine off entirely from the rest of the Union.

MUST VOTE AGAIN ON CLOSING HOUR

Business Men's Association Favor P. M. Closing of Stores Saturdays During Summer

MEETING, FEBRUARY 18

Previous Motion Was Void; Joint Agreement Necessary Between Merchants and Clerks

A special meeting of the Brainerd Business Men's Association will be held on Friday, February 18, at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms for the purpose of considering and acting upon the matter of keeping the stores open until 9 p. m. Saturdays during the months of May, June, July, August and September.

At the last annual meeting a motion was passed to keep all stores open until 9 p. m. on Saturdays during the summer months.

At the January meeting of the Board of Directors it was learned that a previous action had been taken by the association to the effect that no action changing the closing hours could be taken by the association without a joint agreement between merchants and clerks. Consequently the motion passed at the annual meeting was void.

In order to fully bring this before the members, a petition was circulated asking each member to express his views. This expression, however, cannot be used as a proxy and it will be necessary for interested members to be present in person at the special meeting on February 18 to cast his vote.

The Retail Clerks' organization has been notified of this proposed action regarding closing hours and any action taken at this meeting will be legal and final.

Crow Wing county was represented by Commissioners Edward Krueger and A. G. Anderson at the annual meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners at St. Paul last week. County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy attended the conference of county highway engineers and also the meeting of the Minnesota Surveyors' and Engineers society in Minneapolis.

Highway problems occupied a large part of the discussions at all three meetings. While nearly all the counties reported rapid progress in road improvement, there was a realization of the problem resulting from the great increase in traffic in all sections of the state.

Commissioner C. M. Babcock in an address before the county commissioners, pointed out that while road taxes have increased, the amount per car has decreased. In 1914, although road taxes in Minnesota totalled only $5,642,223, this was an average of $134.23 per car. In 1921, the average was $84.94; in 1922, $69.86; in 1923, $56.22; in 1924, $55.63; in 1925, $56.60; in 1926, although the total was $34,197,638, the average per car was only $53.62. These figures were obtained by taking the total of county, town and state aid tax levies, auto licenses, gas taxes and federal aid and dividing by the number of cars registered.

The time when 75 per cent of the trunk highways will be permanently improved, so that additional routes can be legally added, Mr. Babcock said depends not upon the total amount of funds the department receives, but upon the amount per vehicle. Many gravel roads, which might be classed as permanent under moderate traffic, will prove very temporary if traffic gets heavier, he said.

"Perhaps we are spending too much for motor vehicle transportation, but that is a question each individual must decide," Mr. Babcock said. "As long as the people of the nation spend more than ten billion for cars and operating costs, no one

Erick Anderson Passed Away Saturday; Wife Died Wednesday

DIED FROM PNEUMONIA

Survived by 13 Children; Interment at Evergreen Cemetery

The bodies of Mrs. Sophie Anderson and her husband Erick Anderson will be laid to rest in adjoining graves in Evergreen cemetery tomorrow as the last earthly tribute to two souls of supreme love.

The sad event of the double funeral will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Clara Lutheran church, funeral rites to be officiated by Rev. August Samuelson.

As if the hand of fate had ruled that there be no parting, Erick Anderson, the husband passed away Saturday evening from pneumonia as arrangements were being made for the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Sophie Anderson who passed away from the same ailment on Wednesday evening.

Born and raised in the same locality, that being the Parish of Essee, Finland, and a difference of only 16 days in their ages, the childhood romance of two during school hood days crept into their lives as they matured.

Mrs. Anderson was born on September 9, 1868 while Mr. Anderson was born on September 25, 1869. Their marriage was honored in 1888. There is a sadness in the lives of their 13 children today that no earthly sympathy can fill.

Death claimed Mrs. Sophie Anderson last Wednesday from pneumonia. She had been sick only a few days and her passing was felt with the deepest regret by all who knew her. Only a few evenings previous to her death she had assisted with the preparation of an entertainment put on by the ladies aid of the Bethlehem Lutheran church of which she was a member.

Erick Anderson, 58 years old, was a pipefitter at the N. P. shops here where he has been employed since 1886. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America. His death Saturday evening from pneumonia was sudden.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are survived by 13 children and 8 grandchildren. The children are: Mrs. William Linton, Mrs. Bannikoff, Helena, Mont.; Mrs. C. E. Hornby, August Anderson, Emil Anderson, William, Irene, Esther and Lillian Anderson, Brainerd; Albert Anderson, San Francisco; Mrs. Oehme, Ida and George Anderson, Berkeley, Calif. Mr. Anderson is also survived by two brothers, Gust Anderson, Bay Point, Calif. and Leander Anderson, of Sweden.

Vitality and Hustle

American vitality is a function, mathematically speaking, of the prosperity and the modernity. An insufficiently nourished human being requires a great deal of rest.

Reduced to an Indian diet, Americans would be a good deal less interested than they actually are in business efficiency, uplift and the chariot. They would spend most of their spare time in doze, or in the doze of first cousin, meditation. But they have enough to eat—a great deal more than enough, in fact. They can afford to hustle; indeed, they must hustle or else die of plethora.

Men and women who wash down beefsteaks with glasses of rich, creamy milk need to do something pretty strenuous in order to keep alive at all.—From "Jesting Pilate," by Aldous Huxley.

Time Will Remedy That

They start 'em young out in Hollywood. According to reputable information, Jackie Coogan and his director had a bit of an argument recently while filming the youthful star's latest picture.

"See here, Jackie," began the director. "I've directed bigger stars than you."

Jack interrupted with a scornful look.

"Bigger, yes, but only in size," he retorted.

Complete Success

Young Housewife—Are you sure this cleaner that you are selling will really take out the dirt?

Agent—Why not? Say, lady, yesterday I rubbed some of it on a copy of Scandalous Stories and when I got through I had the Sunday School Gazette!—Life Magazine.

No New Information

Figures compiled by experts in Boston go to show that bachelors are involved in more than half of all the highway accidents. Which, after all, is merely another way of saying that youth must have its fling.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MUST VOTE AGAIN ON CLOSING HOUR

Business Men's Association Favor P. M. Closing of Stores Saturdays During Summer

MEETING, FEBRUARY 18

Previous Motion Was Void; Joint Agreement Necessary Between Merchants and Clerks

A special meeting of the Brainerd Business Men's Association will be held on Friday, February 18, at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms for the purpose of considering and acting upon the matter of keeping the stores open until 9 p. m. Saturdays during the months of May, June, July, August and September.

At the last annual meeting a motion was passed to keep all stores open until 9 p. m. on Saturdays during the summer months.

At the January meeting of the Board of Directors it was learned that a previous action had been taken by the association to the effect that no action changing the closing hours could be taken by the association without a joint agreement between merchants and clerks. Consequently the motion passed at the annual meeting was void.

In order to fully bring this before the members, a petition was circulated asking each member to express his views. This expression, however, cannot be used as a proxy and it will be necessary for interested members to be present in person at the special meeting on February 18 to cast his vote.

The Retail Clerks' organization has been notified of this proposed action regarding closing hours and any action taken at this meeting will be legal and final.

The funeral of Charles Peterson, aged 71 years, Brainerd resident for 44 years who died suddenly Saturday morning will be conducted tomorrow afternoon from the residence, 609 South 7th street at 1:30 o'clock and from the Bethlehem Lutheran church South 7th street at 2 o'clock.

The body was taken to the house today where friends may view the remains. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

When Irene Was Kidnaped

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

HENRY HALLETT was wondering if he had done a foolish thing when, on his second day in camp, he had, in a moment of pique at his hostess' daughter, Paula, roamed into the woods unguided.

"Don't go beyond the upper falls and if you meet any movie queens, don't let them vamp you!" Paula had shouted after him. "They're shooting a picture on the Allenby grounds. Millionaire Allenby of the Pulp Company. So long, dearie!"

The heartless little wretch! Here he had come all the way from home to ask Paula Godding to marry him only to be treated as a joke. "The very idea!" Paula had teased. "Me to marry an infant I've beaten at marbles. I can regard you as a dear little playmate, but as a husband, gosh sakes, no!"

Sauntering along the path, he wondered what he could do to bring himself before her in a new and unfamiliar light. And, pondering this, he came to an open parklike space where the afternoon sun threw long shadows from the boles of sky-reaching pines. Seating himself on a fallen stump well back in the shade, he rested and watched the wary approaches of a shy chipmunk.

Suddenly, out into the sunlight from the opposite side, strolled the slender figure of a girl.

As she stooped to pick some of the large white daisies that starred the grass, Henry heard the roll of a heavy car. Then he saw the girl's head lift in a startled sort of way. Next moment, two men dashed in through the underbrush, one with a loop of rope which he swung toward the girl, lassoing her neatly.

Henry, whose impulse had been to dash single handed to her aid, suddenly felt foolish. Lucky that Paula had told him of the picture-taking or he might have made an everlasting fool of himself.

He watched them bind her and make off with her to the car. When he heard it vanish in the distance, he hastened over to see by what road the men had come.

Henry decided against trying to find his way back by the road and made a leisurely return along the trail he had come. He rather thought he had come to a decision regarding Paula. He would leave her flat. No girl ought to treat an honest proposal of marriage as Paula had treated his and get away with it. There were other pretty girls in the world.

Yet he hoped Paula had been concerned over his absence. Men had been lost in the North Woods and it would have pleased him, in his present state of mind, to have caused her anxiety. On the contrary, when he came up to the camp, it was quite evident that Paula was not even looking for him.

There was some sort of excitement or other and, unreasonably, Henry felt peeved to think he was not in on it. As Paula came up to him, he resolved not to show overmuch interest in whatever it was.

"Heard the news, Hen? Irene Allenby was kidnaped about an hour ago and her father is offering $5,000 reward for any information as to her whereabouts. She went out to walk—"

"I suppose he's been telephoning?" he asked calmly.

"Of course," cried Paula. "He's simply wild!"

"Guess I'll call him myself," said Henry, and before the astonished Paula could gather her wits, he had run quickly into the big living room and snatched down the receiver.

"Mr. Allenby? Not a moment to lose. Forty minutes ago, a huge car with Durex tires containing your daughter and two men, one smooth-faced, the other with a sandy mustache, drove off on that old lumber road above the upper falls. They were going east and, if there's a road you can head them off—Yes, sir. Very well."

He turned to the open-mouthed Paula. "Mr. Allenby is to pick me up. Thinks his car, by going straight up over the mountain, can beat them to the state road which is the first road they can make any time on. Darn shame—lovely girl like Irene!"

The wild ride over Twin Peaks, the packing of the kidnappers, the exchange of shots, the rescue of Irene Allenby, isn't the main part of this story. Actually, it was a far greater thriller than the one soon to be screened by the movie company and certainly to Henry it was the time of his young life.

Six hours from the time Paula had seen him go, he came back to her. "We got her," he said quietly. "Plucky kid. Joked all the way home. Why—why, Paula!"

For Paula, regardless of onlookers, had gone straight into his arms and was sobbing on his shoulder. "I—I don't think, when you're engaged to me, you ought to risk your life, Henry Hallett. I just don't!"

So Henry, besides Mr. Allenby's check for $5,000, was rewarded with the heart and hand of the girl he loved, although even today he isn't sure whether he owes his good luck to the fact that for a moment he appeared in the guise of a hero; to the lovely Irene who made Paula jealous, or to the bullet of one of the kidnappers which grazed his cheek and left a tiny wound.

Personally, I think Paula intended to marry him anyway.

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—A revised bill for manufacture and distribution of medicinal whiskey was reported favorably to the house today by the ways and means committee.

The measure abandons the plan of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews for creation of a private corporation to handle replenishment of existing stocks of spirits. It authorizes the secretary of the treasury to issue permits to not less than two nor more than six distilleries to manufacture whiskey.

Nicholas Murray Butler Says He Only Spoke as a Private Citizen

New York, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, was speaking only as a private citizen when he said that Calvin Coolidge would not be a third term candidate for president, he said in a new statement which politicians were talking about today.

Butler added a denial that he himself was a candidate for the presidency. Butler a week ago, in an address here, said Mr. Coolidge would not run again. The statement aroused much comment.

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—The Norris resolution, authorizing investigation of charges that federal officers have been "bartered and sold" in the south, was today favorably reported by the senate committee on audit and control.

Because of the absence of the leading opponent of the resolution, Sen. Ernst, republican, Kentucky, consideration of the senate was delayed until tomorrow, however.

The committee adopted an amendment which would limit the investigating committee to an expenditure of $25,000.

How to Restore Lost Appetite

And Build Firm, Solid Flesh, And Renew Vitality

Thousands of men and women lack appetite and are "finicky" about what they eat and so find their energy and vigor slipping away. Thousands of other men and women eat heartily, even to the point of stuffing, yet they remain thin and can't seem to get any "pep."

Such conditions are due to faulty nutritive processes. Lack of stimulation to the mouth and stomach glands is the real cause. We all need better digestion of our food. Scientists are telling us about this as announced nearly every day in the newspapers and medical journals. If your appetite is poor or if you eat a lot and you still remain thin and lacking in vitality, try this—a good stimulant three times a day with your meals. You will be satisfied with the improvement and results will come quickly.

A remarkable, stimulant- tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy. —Adv.

When Irene Was Kidnaped

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

HENRY HALLETT was wondering if he had done a foolish thing when, on his second day in camp, he had, in a moment of pique at his hostess' daughter, Paula, roamed into the woods unguided.

"Don't go beyond the upper falls and if you meet any movie queens, don't let them vamp you!" Paula had shouted after him. "They're shooting a picture on the Allenby grounds. Millionaire Allenby of the Pulp company. So long, dearie!"

The heartless little wretch! Here he had come all the way from home to ask Paula Godding to marry him only to be treated as a joke. "The very idea!" Paula had teased. "Me to marry an infant I've beaten at marbles. I can regard you as a dear little playmate, but as a husband, gosh sakes, no!"

Sanctuary along the path, he wondered what he could do to bring himself before her in a new and unfamiliar light. And, pondering this, he came to an open, parklike space where the afternoon sun threw long shadows from the boles of sky-reaching pines. Seating himself on a fallen stump well back in the shade, he rested and watched the wary approaches of a shy chipmunk.

Suddenly, out into the sunlight from the opposite side, strolled the slender figure of a girl.

As she stooped to pick some of the large white daisies that starred the grass, Henry heard the roll of a heavy car. Then he saw the girl's head lift in a startled sort of way. Next moment, two men dashed in through the underbrush, one with a loop of rope which he swung toward the girl, lassoing her neatly.

Henry, whose impulse had been to dash single handed to her aid, suddenly felt foolish. Lucky that Paula had told him of the picture-taking or he might have made an everlasting fool of himself.

He watched them bind her and make off with her to the car. When he heard it vanish in the distance, he hastened over to see by what road the men had come.

Henry decided against trying to find his way back by the road and made a leisurely return along the trail he had come. He rather thought he had come to a decision regarding Paula. He would leave her flat. No girl ought to treat an honest proposal of marriage as Paula had treated his and get away with it. There were other pretty girls in the world.

Yet he hoped Paula had been concerned over his absence. Men had been lost in the North Woods and it would have pleased him, in his present state of mind, to have caused her anxiety. On the contrary, when he came up to the camp, it was quite evident that Paula was not even looking for him.

There was some sort of excitement or other and, unreasonably, Henry felt peeved to think he was not in on it. As Paula came up to him, he resolved not to show overmuch interest in whatever it was.

"Heard the news, Hen? Irene Allenby was kidnaped about an hour ago and her father is offering $5,000 reward for any information as to her whereabouts. She went out to walk—"

"I suppose he's been telephoning?" he asked calmly.

"Of course," cried Paula. "He's simply wild!"

"Guess I'll call him myself," said Henry, and before the astonished Paula could gather her wits, he had run quickly into the big living room and snatched down the receiver.

"Mr. Allenby? Not a moment to lose. Forty minutes ago, a huge car with Durex tires containing your daughter and two men, one smooth-faced, the other with a sandy mustache, drove off on that old lumber road above the upper falls. They were going east and, if there's a road you can head them off— Yes, sir. Very well."

He turned to the open-mouthed Paula. "Mr. Allenby is to pick me up. Thanks his car, by going straight up over the mountain, can beat them to the state road which is the first road they can make any time on. Darn shame—lovely girl like Irene!"

The wild ride over Twin Peaks, the packing of the kidnapers, the exchange of shots, the rescue of Irene Allenby, isn't the main part of this story. Actually, it was a far greater thriller than the one soon to be screened by the movie company and certainly to Henry it was the time of his young life.

Six hours from the time Paula had seen him go, he came back to her. "We got her," he said quietly. "Plucky kid. Joked all the way home. Why—why, Paula!"

For Paula, regardless of onlookers, had gone straight into his arms and was sobbing on his shoulder. "I—I don't think, when you're engaged to me, you ought to risk your life, Henry Hallett. I just don't!"

So Henry, besides Mr. Allenby's check for $5,000, was rewarded with the heart and hand of the girl he loved, although even today he isn't sure whether he owes his good luck to the fact that for a moment he appeared in the guise of a hero; to the lovely Irene who made Paula jealous; or to the bullet of one of the kidnapers which grazed his cheek and left a tiny wound.

Personally, I think Paula intended to marry him anyway.

REVISED BILL FOR MAKING OF MEDICINAL WHISKEY

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—A revised bill for manufacture and distribution of medicinal whiskey was reported favorably to the house today by the ways and means committee.

The measure abandons the plan of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews for creation of a private corporation to handle replenishment of existing stocks of spirits. It authorizes the secretary of the treasury to issue permits to not less than two nor more than six distilleries to manufacture whiskey.

Nicholas Murray Butler Says He Only Spoke
as a Private Citizen

New York, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, was speaking only as a private citizen when he said that Calvin Coolidge would not be a third term candidate for president, he said in a new statement which politicians were talking about today.

Butler added a denial that he himself was a candidate for the presidency.

Butler a week ago, in an address here, said Mr. Coolidge would not run again. The statement aroused much comment.

SEEK TO PROBE
'BARTER AND SALE' OF FEDERAL OFFICES

Washington, Feb. 14.—(UP)—The Norris resolution, authorizing investigation of charges that federal offices have been "bartered and sold" in the south, was today favorably reported by the senate committee on audit and control.

Because of the absence of the leading opponent of the resolution, Sen. Ernst, republican, Kentucky, consideration of the senate was delayed until tomorrow, however.

The committee adopted an amendment which would limit the investigating committee to an expenditure of $25,000.
